Regional sprinkling ban, $500 fine recommended

by SCOTT L. HAMILTON

If public works directors of the Northwest suburbs have their way, residents will be able to water their lawns only on Thursdays and Sunday — and face a fine up to $500 for violation of the sprinkling ban.

Public works directors from four Northwest suburbs met in Arlington Heights Tuesday and agreed to recommend Thursday to the 16 suburbs in the Northwest Municipal Conference that a regional sprinkling ban be enacted limiting sprinkling to Thursday and Sunday.

Rolling Meadows already has enacted such a ban.

If the conference approves, as is expected, the member village boards and city councils will receive the recommendation for their approval at their next meetings.

GENE WILLROTH, director of the Arlington Heights Public Works Dept., said he expects 13 of the 16 conference members to adopt the ban. He expects Des Plaines, Niles and Park Ridge, which get water from Lake Michigan, to balk at the plan.

"There are 33 communities in northusage by 1 million gallons a day in the last five years," Willroth said. "This (sprinkling) is the culprit. The biggest problem is sprinkling."

Willroth said the ban is designed at water conservation for the entire northwest area and it must be approached on a regional basis.

Richard Martin, Rolling Meadows Public Works director, said the water table for the Northwest area is dropping, putting all the suburbs in a squeeze, forcing emergency measures to be put into effect during long periods of no rain.

NOTING THAT sprinkling fines currently are small, Martin said, "I'd pay a $5 or $10 fine to sprinkle because I've got more than that tied up in my lawn."

"That's why I put it to $500," said Willroth, who prepared the ordinance, based on the existing ordinance in Arlington Heights, but which has only a $25 fine. "The first offense probably will be a $10 fine plus court costs. The second offense should be a mandatory $100 fine."

Most bans now limit sprinkling to odd numbered houses sprinkling on odd and even numbered houses sprinkling on even days. In recommending a more strict ban, Martin noted the water tables for wells in Rolling Meadows have dropped 60 feet. Willroth said his wells have been pumping an average of 2.2 million gallons per day over June 1975. David Creamer and William Davis, directors of the Mount Prospect and Buffalo Grove public works departments, reported similar problems.

Creamer said the cities may have to hire a "water warden" to enforce the ban, relieving police of the enforcement.

THE GOAL of the ban is to conserve 5.5 million gallons of water per day. The 16 towns in the conference currently pump 55 million gallons per day, and village officials fear that amount of usage will deplete the water supply.

The only long range solution to the problem, Willroth said, is to tap Lake Michigan water.

"The problem isn't going to go away," Willroth said. "It's a matter of when we run out. We're going to have to stretch this water until we can get a Lake Michigan tap."

Shun annexation: Hanson

Panel urged to attract industry to village land

The new Industrial and Commercial Development Commission should concentrate on attracting industry to land within the village limits rather than annexing adjacent sites, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson recommended Tuesday.

Hanson urged commission members to become acquainted first with property owners who are willing to sell undeveloped land.

"Ferret out those who are willing to consider selling so you know which ones you can work with," he said.

Hanson discouraged the commission from attempting to annex adjacent land at this time.

"I WOULDN'T concentrate on the land that isn't incorporated, except maybe along Rand Road, because of the problem of providing utiities. The village isn't in the position to extend these right now," Hanson said.

"You've got enough properties zoned and ready to go without trying to encourage others to annex," he said.

It will be the commission's job to find industries interested in locating in Arlington Heights and then direct them to property owners willing to sell, Raymond H. Warns, commission chairman, said.

Hanson also recommended that the village not offer to sell industrial revenue bonds as an enticement for industries to build in Arlington Heights.

INDUSTRIAL REVENUE bonds are issued by a municipality at a low interest rate, but paid for by the business for which they are issued.

The village's financial experts have advised against issuing industrial revenue bonds, Hanson said.

"If anything went wrong, it would be a mark against the village," he said.

'Magic number' passed for Carter nomination

by United Press International

Just one week after the end of the 1976 presidential primaries, Jimmy Corter had more than the 1,505 delegates needed to win the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot, a UPI survey showed Tuesday. On the Republican side, President Ford remained 121 votes short of nomination on a first ballot.

The survey showed 1,525 delegates were committed or leaning to Carter.

The count did not include hundreds of potential Carter delegates in New York, New Jersey and other states where party leaders have said there will be a move toward the Carter bandwagon in coming days.

Despite every indication that Carter had the nomination locked up, his two closest rivals, Morris Udall and Edmund G. Brown Jr., remained in the race. The poll showed Udall with 335 delegates and Brown with 265.

In the tight Republican race, President Ford had 1,009 of the 1,130 delegates needed to win the nomination and challenger Ronald Reagan had 893, with 98 uncommitted.

The survey showed the Ford-Reagan battle would go down to the wire, with state conventions to pick the remaining 258 GOP delegates playing a crucial role.

Carter went over the top with a boost from large blocs of delegates previously uncommitted or pledged to other candidate in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, plus a handful from Illinois' Tennessee, the Virgin Islands, New Mexico, Alabama and Louisiana.

Three treated, released after car-truck crash

A truck crashed into the rear of a car at Palatine Road and Windsor Drive Tuesday morning, but occupants of the auto escaped serious injury, Arlington Heights police reported.

Police said a car driven by Susan G. Stancil, 19, of 472 W. Green, Palatine, was eastbound on Palatine Road slowing for a stoplight at 10:57 a.m. when a truck driven by James R. Kocimski, 37, of Onalaska, Wis., struck the car.

Arlington Heights paramedics transported Ms. Stancil and her two passengers to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, police said.

Ms. Stancil reportedly complained of dizziness. Mattie Johnson, 57, of 1209 Sunset, Arlington Heights, and Ms. Stancil's 12-year-old brother, Frank, reportedly were shaken by the crash.

The three were treated and released. Kocimski escaped injury. No tickets were issued.

Financial policies topic of meeting

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson today will discuss the future financial policies and outlook of Arlington Heights with the fiscal policy planning committee.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. in the municipal building,33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The committee, first proposed by former Village Pres. Ralph Clarbour, is charged with studying the long term financial commitments of the village and its ability to meet them.

This Mary Hartman not like TV namesake

by PAT GERLACH

Neil is the important man in Mary Hartman's life, though the American television audience probably will never meet him.

The 32-year-old Schaumburg woman, who has been Mary Hartman long before Norman Lear's popular television soap opera spoof began, said she has never been plagued with the identity crises that beset her famous namesake.

And Mrs. Neil Hartman could care less about "yellow waxy build-up" even if she didn't have a no-wax kitchen floor.

BUT, SHE SAYS she is really having fun with her name these days.

Today

"The other Mary Hartman has really changed my life a lot. People I normally wouldn't talk to come up and start conversations, especially in the supermarket when I have cashed a check and gotten a couple of quiet smirks or a wisecrack," she said.

And she said friends of her children, Mary, 8, ("very honestly, we were seriously thinking of naming her Heather"), and Robbie, 7, think it's "neat" to know someone whose name is really Mary Hartman.

The only problem she has had with her newfound fame came when she attempted to order some records by telephone.

"I GAVE THE man the necessary information, then he asked my name, and from there on in it was disaster. I got a sarcastic 'yeah, lady, and I'm the man in the moon' before he hung up."

But, by and large, the Mary Hartman who was born Mary Moore, is enjoying the local notoriety, even the good natured ribbing she takes from the principal at her children's school.

"It's kind of funny, though, I sometimes find myself wondering if people take me seriously or somehow relate me to the television character," she said.

Mrs. Hartman admits she and her husband watch the show regularly, though they began following it "strictly out of curiosity."

"I DON'T agree with Norman Lear's ultra-liberal political philosophy but I like what he has done with the bigotry issue and other things that have been traditional TV taboos. The exposure he has given these things tends to make us realize how silly they really are," she said.

But how similar are the two Mary Hartmans? "Not alike at all, I'm afraid, only that we are both Aries, her birthday being April 8 and mine April 18. I think that's where it pretty much ends," said Schaumburg's Mary.

How about the other question people always ask? 'Yes, I have a sister, Patty. She doesn't have an overbite, though."

Schaumburg's Mary says she is a "jack of all trades" who enjoys crafts, and sewing. "I don't have as much time to sew as I'd like. No, I've never made a wrap-around dress with puffy sleeves, but I sometimes put my hair in two pony tails when I'm working in the house."

She is active in PTA and has helped with a 4th grade junior great books class at Dooley School.

Mary said her parents, who live in Virginia, have never mentioned TV's Mary Hartman. "I wonder if they have ever seen the show," she mused.

THIS MARY Hartman lives in Schaumburg, Ill., not the fictitious Fernwood, Ohio.

Liquor stores circulating petitions

Seek repeal of county home-rule

by WANDALYN RICE

Petitions calling for repeal of Cook County's home-rule power are quietly being circulated by liquor stores, The Herald has learned.

If successful, the petition drive will result in a referendum on November's election ballot to strip the county of the power it used to impose the county liquor tax last year and to propose the employe head tax last week.

Cook County Board Pres. George W. Dunne said Tuesday the petition drive is a "vindictive act" by the liquor dealers.

THERE HAS BEEN no public announcement of the petition effort, which must get 143,000 signatures by Aug. 16 to place the repeal referendum on the November ballot. In addition, officials of the Illinois Liquor Stores' Assn. Tuesday either denied any support of the move or declined comment.

However, several liquor store operators and an official of Famous Industries, parent company for Famous Liquor stores, indicated to The Herald the petition drive is in fact backed by the association.

Howard Schwarzbach of the firm said those stores do have the petitions, but said, "All statements about this must be made by the liquor stores' association." Schwarzbach, a member of the association board of directors, said, "I'm not able to answer questions because I don't want to violate my agreement with other directors."

Morton Siegal, executive director of the association, denied that the association is behind the petition drive. A.B. Dobkin, of Palatine, president of the association, declined comment on the petition drive, saying any comment is "premature. We don't have a feel for it yet."

THE PETITIONS HAVE been placed on check-out counters in liquor stores. Operators of Famous, Foremost and Armanetti stores in the Northwest suburbs said they received copies of the petitions from their main offices.

The liquor association has been considering a home-rule referendum since last summer when the county imposed the county liquor tax with its home-rule power. The association failed in attempts to overturn the tax in a case which went to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The County liquor tax is $1 per gallon on liquor, four cents per gallon on beer, 12 cents per gallon on wine of 14 per cent alcohol or less and 30 cents per gallon on wine with more than 14 per cent alcohol.

Other business groups and some suburban officials have discussed a possible home-rule referendum in the past week since the county proposed a $3 a month employe head tax to be levied on all county business. Officials of the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry said Tuesday they are aware of the liquor dealers' petition but have not decided whether to support it.

DUNNE SAID he believes officials of the Illinois Liquor Stores' Assn. are trying to keep their support of the petition drive secret because "They don't want a stigma placed on it." He said, "Liquor is the scourge of humanity — it's a greater narcotic than heroin and it ill behooves such an industry to support something like this (the petition drive.)"

Dunne said the petition is vindictive because even if the county is stripped of home rule, the tax will not be repealed.

"The only thing they are doing is hurting the government of Cook County," he said.

Dunne said it is possible the petition drive might succeed because "people will sign any petition and the voters could very well be deceived into thinking all home rule means is new taxes."

Teen found guilty in murder of girl

A Lake County jury Tuesday evening found Frank Slago III, 17, of Libertyville, guilty of murdering Kimberly Muno, a 16-year-old Libertyville High School student. Miss Muno's partially clothed, frozen body was found Jan. 3 in a creekbed on Hanlon Road near Lakehurst in Waukegan. She had been missing since leaving work at the Hawthorn Shopping Center the night before. Slago was arrested Jan. 4 and charged with the murder. Slago wept as Sheriff's deputies led him away from the Waukegan courtroom shortly after the verdict of the seven-man five-woman jury was announced at 6:15 p.m. Sentencing has been set for July 15. Defense Attorney Michael Boyd said he will file a motion for a new trial. The jury deliberated 14 hours Monday and Tuesday before reaching a verdict at 5:55 p.m.

Grand jury to probe bombings

The Cook County Grand Jury will investigate the recent bombings of suburban restaurants and the Arlington Park Theatre. State's Atty. Bernard Carey said the grand jury will "try to pin down a specific motive and pattern" of blasts that recently rocked the Pickwick House, 10 N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, LeGourmet Restaurant, 500 Rand Rd., Wheeling Township, and the Arlington Park Theatre, part of the Arlington Park Race Track-Hilton Hotel complex in Arlington Heights. Two other suburban restaurants, in Lisle and Bridgeview, were bombed in the early morning hours of May 12 about 90 minutes before the Pickwick House blast. In March, Le Gourmet was hit by a pipebomb that damaged walls, a ceiling and furniture. In April, a bomb destroyed a light-control panel at the Arlington Park Theatre. Carey said "hard evidence" turned up by his office and other investigating agencies is "enough to start this investigation." He said the grand jury will attempt to determine if organized crime played a role in the attacks.

FBI bomb hunt given high priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence J. Kelley said Tuesday more than a dozen firms receiving letter bombs in the last 48 hours were on a list of about 200 corporations which have gotten extortion demands for "millions of dollars" since last fall.

Kelley said the FBI has launched a nationwide "high priority" investigation into the source of the bombs, including one which injured four persons in New York Monday, in hope of stopping "what could be a very bad and fearful situation."

He told a news conference the series of letter bombs appeared to be part of an extortion program which began last fall. He said with only one exception all of the 13 bombs which have been reported so far had gone to corporations which received extortion letters.

The FBI director did not identify the exception nor specify the wording of the extortion threats. FBI sources said one warned "we shall kick corporate asses until there is nothing left to kick."

The letters included photographs of individual corporation executives marked as targets.

Most of the extortion demands and letter bombs have been postmarked either from Atlanta, Tex., or Texarkana, Tex., in the northeast corner of the state, Kelley said.

Kelley said he called the news conference to appeal for anyone receiving possible letter bombs or having information in the case to contact authorities.

Displaying a replica of one of the letters, he said the explosives appeared to be "low order in nature."

"Extreme caution should be taken in the event letters of this type are received," Kelley said.

The FBI director said the Secret Service, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Bureau of the Justice Department, postal authorities and local law enforcement agencies are also participating in the search for the source of the bombs.

He would give no immediate indication whether the FBI knew who was involved or how much money the extortionists were demanding.

A new letter bomb, similar to those mailed to the other corporations, was opened at the offices of the Combined Insurance Co. of American in suburban Worthington outside Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday but did not explode.

"Evidently it just failed to go off," said Capt. Marion Alex of the Worthington Police Department. "At this point I have no idea why it didn't go off. It was opened. It should have gone off, but didn't."

One of the bombs exploded Monday in the Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith brokerage house in New York.

A mailroom employe, Mileta Philips, 50, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with severe cuts on her arms. Three co-workers standing nearby suffered minor cuts.

The other bombs, some mailed to executives' homes, either failed to explode or were disarmed.

The FBI said the letter bombs were contained in manila envelopes either 9 by 12 inches or 10 by 13 inches, about three-quarters of an inch thick. The devices — explosives wired to nine-volt batteries — were set to explode when opened.

In Washington, Postal Inspector P. G. Coe said that because of privacy restrictions, the Post Office Department does not screen any mail.

"If you're suspicious at all, don't open it, call us, we'll bring portable X-ray equipment to you," he said.

"There is no possible way we can anticipate bombs, but once a pattern develops, we alert potential recipients," Coe said.

Carter delegates over the top for first ballot win to Carter, some said they preferred Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California as the last hope to stop the Georgian. A few George Wallace delegates remained firm behind the Alabama governor, saying Carter was too liberal for them.

With his nomination assured, Carter vacationed on Sea Island, Ga. Earlier he told reporters that when elected he would move immediately to bring welfare reform and national health insurance and would move more slowly on his programs of tax reform and government reorganization.

On the Republican side, Ford and Reagan looked to the Iowa, Washington and Delaware conventions this weekend which pick a total of 91 delegates. Ford was favored to win most or all 17 Georgia delegates, while Reagan seemed assured of getting at least 32 in Washington and perhaps all 38.

The big GOP battle ground will be in Iowa, where both Ford and Reagan will address the state convention this weekend in an effort to woo the 36 delegates at stake.

A poll of the previously uncommitted West Virginia Republican delegation showed 19 delegates committed or leaning to Ford and nine supporting Reagan.

The survey showed all 33 West Virginia Democratic delegates leaning to Carter. They were released last week by favorite son Robert Byrd, the Senate Democratic whip.

"I don't know anybody in the West Virginia delegation who doesn't like Carter," West Virginia Democratic Chairman J. C. Dillon told UPI. "He is very acceptable to our state."

"Carter has it sealed up," said Pennsylvania State Democratic Chairman Dennis Thieman. He said in addition to the 68 delegates Carter won in the primary, the Georgian now has picked up 40 more and eventually will have the support of most of those in Pennsylvania.

"I just don't see the Pennsylvania delegation going in any other direction," he said.

Gov. Rafael Herandez Colon of Puerto Rico endorsed Carter and said 15 Commonwealth delegates would support him as soon as they are formally released by Sen. Henry Jackson.

The tally did not include any new delegates from Indiana, where Democrats met in state convention. However, State Democratic Chairman Bill Trisler said that almost all of the 75 Indiana delegates could be counted in the Carter column.

In Washington, meantime, the Democratic Party platform committee, in a "tremendous spirit of party unity," disposed of most of the controversial domestic issues before it harmoniously.

It approved for inclusion in the final platform to be presented to the Democratic National Convention next month planks that call for:

- Financing national health insurance through an employer-employe payroll tax in addition to general revenues.
- Providing "income maintenance" for the poor and requiring able bodied welfare recipients to accept work in a welfare program "substantially financed by the federal government."
- Extending full pardons to Vietnam war resisters and treating deserters on a case-by-case basis.

Energy and foreign policy issues were to be taken up in later sessions as the committee met through Wednesday.

Flu vaccine firm insurance to be dropped

A drug company producing vaccine for the upcoming mass immunization campaign against swine flu said Tuesday its liability insurance is being canceled July 1, creating "an impossible situation." Parke-Davis appealed through its parent company, Warner-Lambert Co. of Morris Plains, N.J., for government help. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare plans "to ask Congress to pass legislation which would indemnify the companies against claims attributable to inoculation with the vaccine."

CIA ordered not to destroy 'Chaos' files

A federal judge has ordered the CIA not to destroy Operation Chaos files gathered on thousands of American at the direction of Presidents Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, the American Civil Liberties Union said Tuesday. A Senate committee staff report said last month the spy agency compiled the information on orders from the two presidents, who feared extensive foreign influence on domestic unrest in the late 1960s and early '70s. The ACLU revealed that U.S. District Judge June Green, in an order dated June 11, told CIA Director George Bush to protect the files pending outcome of the civil suit demanding publication of the material.

Judge to rule soon on food stamp legality

A federal judge, after hearing arguments Tuesday, promised to rule no later than Friday on the legality of new government food stamp regulations which challengers said could reduce or eliminate benefits for 10.8 million Americans. District Judge John Lewis Smith continued a temporary restraining order he issued May 28 to block enforcement of the new regulations which originally were scheduled to go into effect June 1.

Kidnap of millionaire's daughter foiled

The teen-age daughter of millionaire department store magnate John Craig Eaton escaped a kidnap attempt Tuesday when police surprised her rifle-wielding abductor as he was taking her from her father's home. The gunman reportedly tied up Eaton and his wife, Signy's stepmother, and left a ransom note demanding $600,000 before starting his escape with the young heiress. But Canadian police who had responded to a neighbor's report of a prowler outside the Eaton home, were there when the pair emerged.

Prosecution: mercenaries brought terror

Prosecution witnesses Tuesday testified that 13 mercenaries on trial for their life brought "terror" to border villages in the final days of the Angolan civil war. A string of prosecution witnesses drew a grim mosaic of murder and pillage by the mercenaries and one said that some of the 14 Britons ordered executed by their leader, Costas "Col Callan" Georghiou, were left to bleed to death.

Troops extend occupation

Syrians close to Israeli border

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian armored columns struck South Tuesday, extending their occupation of southern Lebanon to within 2½ miles of the Israeli frontier, western journalists reported from the area.

The Syrian advance took them to within sight of Israeli border guardposts in their southern drive in which they captured more leftist outposts including the Crusader castle of Belfort from Palestinian defenders.

Even as the Syrian forces pushed further South, Arab League secretary general Mahmoud Riad met outgoing Lebanese President Suleiman Franjieh and won his approval for a pan-Arab peace-keeping force to replace the Syrian troops.

Riad said Franjieh still supported the Syrian intervention but also accepted the Arab League resolutions "because they constitute a joint Arab initiative."

Libyan Premier Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud met with Lebanese President-elect Elias Sarkis and Palestianian and Moslem leftist leaders and reiterated that the pan-Arab force "will only be symbolic and not combat troops."

A military communique issued by the joint Moslem leftist-Palestinian command said the Syrians attacked the Moslem village of Kamed al-Lawz, 31 miles southeast of Beirut, and captured a nearby leftist supply depot after "heavy battles."

Western reporters in the area said the Syrians overran leftist defenders from the Bekaa Valley town of Marj'Uyun and sent a column of troops south.

Israeli frontier guardposts and radio installations were clearly visible from the road where Syrian trucks, jeeps and armored cars ferried troops and supplies to new positions near the 12th century castle of Belfort-a tress guarding the Arkoub mountain passes since Crusader days.

The advance brought the Syrians all the way to the Litani River — thought by some diplomats and observers to be the "red line" across which any Syrian move would bring a military response from Israel. But Israeli leaders have recently indicated the "red line" was as much political as geographical.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin warned Israel "cannot be indifferent to what is happening" in Lebanon. Rabin said Israel is watching the situation in Lebanon "hour by hour."

Viking should land on Mars July 4

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Viking 1 Robot spacecraft should land on Mars July 4 as scheduled despite a pesky helium leak that forced some timetable changes for the next few days, Project Manager James Martin said Tuesday.

The big probe, packed with life detection sensors and other instruments, switched onto its final course toward the red planet without difficulty with a brief firing of its main engine. It is to swing into orbit around Mars Saturday.

The maneuver Tuesday was not originally planned, but was ordered to lower pressure that was building up in the spacecraft's propellant tanks as a result of a leaking helium valve.

Martin said the spacecraft would rendezvous with Mars about six hours later than planned. Its initial orbit will take it almost twice as long to circle Mars as planned, but Martin said Viking would be back on its original timetable June 21.

Viking 1, which represents a $500 million investment, Tuesday was 600,000 miles from Mars, traveling toward the planet at 6,100 miles per hour.

"Everything is normal," Martin said. "The maneuver was performed as expected. We have a very obedient robot."

Mao has rarely missed meeting visiting heads of state. The announcement raised speculation that Mao may be seriously ill. His health has been deteriorating in recent weeks and visits with foreign guests already had been reduced to only a few minutes.

Albert will move for delay in Hays ouster decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert said Tuesday he will move to delay a decision on whether to oust ailing Rep. Wayne Hays, accused of keeping a mistress on the government payroll, as chairman of the House Administration Committee.

Albert, talking with reporters on Capitol Hill, also said he disagreed with suggestions that Rep. Allen Howe, D-Utah, charged with solicitating two police decoy prostitutes in Salt Lake City, give up his seat for the good of the Democratic party.

Hays is recovering at a hospital in Barnesville, Ohio, from an overdose of sleeping pills last week. Hospital administrator James Peters reported: "He looks kind of bedraggled, but he's coming along pretty good. He should be released some time this weekend."

Attorneys for Howe in Salt Lake City won a delay in the congressman's arraignment on the soliciting charges, and said Howe will not announce a decision on his political future until he returns to Utah from Washington later this week.

City Judge Paul Grant agreed to put off the Howe arraignment until Monday after Atty. D. Frank Wilkins told him, "We expect the congressman, I mean Allan Howe, to return here to Salt Lake City this week and want a delay so we can consult with him."

Another Howe attorney, Democratic national committeeman Wayne L. Block, said "I expect him to make his decision known before the end of the week."

As for a resolution calling for removing Hays as administration committee chairman, Albert said he would move in the House Democratic caucus Wednesday to put off action until next week.

In another development, a spokesman for the House Ethics Committee said the panel has not yet received a formal request to investigate Rep. John Young, D-Tex., accused by Colleen Gardner last week of requiring sex from her when she worked for him.

Also in Washington:

- The National Park Service Confirmed it provided an electrical line to the houseboat of former Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-Ill., a onetime employer of Elizabeth Ray who accused Hays of keeping her on the payroll solely for sex.

- President Ford made his first public comments on Washington morality since the scandal broke. In a prepared speech to the Southern Baptist convention in Norfolk, Va., Ford said: "Public officials have a special responsibility for others to follow — in both their private and public conduct."

- Syndicated columnsit Jack Anderson quoted a Virginia woman Tuesday as saying she engaged in sexual relations with Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. after seeking his help on a personal problem. The Virginia Independent was not immediately available for comment but he was quoted in the Anderson column as saying the woman is "totally wrong about the seduction." The columnist said the woman told him she was desperate and emotional when she went to the senator and, "He spoke soothingly to her, took her hand and made sexual advances."

Target of letter bomb nearly blew it

Roger Pech, 31, nearly proved that a little knowledge can be dangerous. Pech, the manager of a Chicago furniture store, Monday became the mistaken recipient of one of a dozen letter bombs (see Page 3) received across the country. Before arriving home, Pech said he and a friend "caught a little bit" on the news about the letter bombs and how most had Texarkana, Tex., postmarks. Pech said he found a manila envelope in his mailbox, looked at the postmark and then joked, "Here's this big bulky package from Texarkana, Tex." Pech tossed the package about on the elevator ride to his apartment. "At one point, it bounced off the wall and hit the floor," Pech said.

His friend, however, was concerned, and scooted away from the envelope when the two men got off the elevator. Just to goad his friend, Pech opened the envelope and pulled out two pieces of cardboard . . . a lot of wires, a transistor radio battery, some copper stripping and a switch. Police bomb and arson experts disarmed the explosive. The letter bomb was one of three received in the Chicago area.

The second Chicago area letter was sent to Beatrice Foods in Chicago. A third bomb was sent to the headquarters of McDonald's Systems Inc. in Oak Brook, addressed to McDonadl's Pres. Fred L. Turner.

Woman charged in cop killing

A Lake Bluff woman who held off police from her home for three hours was charged with murder and attempted murder Tuesday in the death of a Lake County Sheriff's policeman and the wounding of another officer. Virginia Piggott, 51, a retired Woman's Army Corps officer, was arraigned on the charges and ordered held without bond in the Lake County jail.

The policeman, Gary Murphy, 29, Waukegan, died in Lake Forest Hospital, at 8:25 a.m. Tuesday, after being shot in the groin. A second officer, David Greene, 23, Mundelein, was shot in the left arm and hospitalized. Lake County Sheriff E. J. LaMagdeleine said the trouble started at about 8 p.m. Monday when authorities received a report a woman had fired a .38 caliber handgun out the window of her home at a group of children at Lake Bluff West Elementary School. The children were not injured in the shooting which apparently stemmed from an argument the woman had with the children over a dog, authorities said. The woman fired on the first officers to arrive and police surrounded the house.

Eye-care probe called waste

Public Aid Director James L. Trainor Tuesday accused the state legislative Advisory Committee on Public Assistance of wasting state money by investigating eye-care specialists his department already investigated. Trainor said the committee has "wasted resources in investigating something public aid has already taken action on."

The committee issued a report Monday charging 16 optometrists, opticians and optical supply houses of cheating the department by fraudulent billing in the state's Medicare system. Joel Edelman, executive director of the committee, said Trainor "doesn't have investigative facts to come forth with the names." Trainor said the department suspended six of the investigated 16 eye-care specialists May 14, prohibiting them from taking Medicare patients. Trainor has refused to name those under investigation.

State called major market for heroin

Mexican heroin has largely taken over the Illinois market in the past five years and much of that traffic is funneled through Aurora, the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission said in a report released Tuesday. The report is the result of a request by the legislature that the ILIC investigate charges printed in the Chicago Sun-Times and the Aurora Beacon-News that a large Mexican-based heroin organization is operating in northern Illinois.

"What the commission found during its six months' investigation overwhelmingly supports the allegations cited" by the newspapers, the report said. "The commission found considerable evidence to verify that there is a 'Mexican Connection' here in northern Illinois — persons and families involved in both the production and trafficking of heroin," the report said. "This is one of the main reasons why northern Illinois is not merely an area of heroin consumption, but an area of significant heroin distribution as well." Although the city's police chief denies it, the report said, "All available intelligence indicates that Aurora is a primary city of illegal drug distribution for Chicago and many smaller cities in Illinois. There is also considerable heroin activity between Aurora and Detroit."

Rail fund bill passes House

The House Tuesday passed and sent to Gov. Daniel Walker a bill (S1976) to pay Amtrak and the Rock Island Lines $1.1 million to keep six runs from Chicago going. The legislation was required because state Comptroller George Lindberg concluded he had no authority under Illinois law to issue checks to the railroads to cover the state's share of their subsidy. As a result Amtrak and the Rock Island said they would halt the six runs if the state doesn't pay by June 30. The bill technically spends no money but allows Lindberg to release the funds he has held up. The vote was 139-3.

ERA hard sell planned

The president of a new Equal Rights Amendment group said Tuesday her organization plans to "run ERA just like a statewide candidate" in an effort to get Illinois ratification for the amendment this year. The new group, ERA Illinois, is a bipartisan coalition of over 50 organizations, including political, labor and education groups, according to its president, Mrs. Doris Conant. She said the organization has rented offices in downtown Chicago and plans to hire fulltime professional staff members to help with organization and planning.

"We intend to wage a serious and thoughtful campaign to tell the truth about ERA and what it means to both men and women, through advertising, distribution of printed materials, lobbying and personal contact with citizens," she said. The effort, she said, "will be as expensive as any campaign to run a statewide candidate. We're going to run ERA just like a statewide candidate."

Six killed in flash fire

A flash fire that engulfed the upper floor of a house Tuesday in Hoyleston killed six members of a family gathered for an infant's first birthday party. Firemen believed a faulty electrical connection in the attic may have set off the fire which was reported at 2:25 a.m. in this Washington County town of 500.

The dead were identified as Carl Mauck, 33, a welder for the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad in Centralia; his wife, Patricia, 33; their daughters, Julie, 14, and Amy Jo, 1; Mauck's mother, Mrs. Naomi Mauck, 67, Hudson, and Mrs. Mauck's mother, Mrs. Kathryn Jackson, 64, Bloomington. The only survivor was a son, Timothy Carl Mauck, 10, who was sleeping on the ground floor of the two-story wood frame house.

Carpenter charged with murder

by JOHN N. FRANK

Police Monday charged Marion Logan, a 30-year-old Chicago carpenter, with the murder of Phyllis Anderson of Buffalo Grove and the wounding of her husband, Leo.

Mrs. Anderson's sister, Judy Cornstead, said after the arrest, "I'm very happy that it's all over."

The Andersons, both 51, had been driving home from the Cornsteads' Lansing, Ill. home when they were attacked on the South Side of Chicago Sunday night. Mrs. Anderson was shot in the head and her husband wounded in the neck.

THREE OF THE Andersons' six children, Elizabeth, 16; Janet, 15, and Michael, 13, were slightly injured by flying glass during the shooting, but were not hospitalized. The other three children were not with the family on the trip.

Assistant State's Atty. Robert Smierciak said he will continue to present evidence to a grand jury called in the Anderson slaying today. Smierciak said Logan probably would be arraigned today.

Logan was identified by area residents who witnessed the attack on the Andersons' auto, Chicago police said.

Chicago Police Supt. James Rochford said during a news conference Tuesday that police believe Logan, a black, acted alone in slaying Mrs. Anderson. His action was incited by the racial violence on the South Side Sunday night, Rochford said.

POLICE SAID there were 18 reports Sunday of roving gangs of youths harassing motorists stranded in the area because of heavy rains.

"The evidence indicates he (Logan) was solely responsible for the murder," Rochford said. A .45-caliber pistol was used in the killing, he said.

Logan has been charged with murder, attempted murder and aggravated battery for the shooting of Leo Anderson, who remains in fair condition at Mercy Hospital, Chicago, after undergoing surgery Monday for a neck wound.

Gifted program before Dist. 23

Implementation of a program for gifted students for the 1976-77 school year will be discussed at 7:30 p.m. today by the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education.

Alternative proposals to provide for the education of the district's gifted students were distributed to board members by Assistant Supt. Gerald McGovern last week.

McGovern and the administration had been requested by the board in May to draw up plans for a gifted program that would provide the most services for the least amount of district funds.

The board was informed last month that the district had cut back on training teachers to instruct gifted children when state funding for the gifted program was cut in October.

Board members said they mitted to a district gifted program and wanted to consider some alternatives the district could afford.

The meeting will be held at the district office, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights.

Grand jury to investigate cafe, theater bombings

The Cook County Grand Jury will investigate the recent rash of bombings of suburban restaurants and the Arlington Park Theatre.

Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey said Tuesday the grand jury will "try to pin down a definite motive and pattern" of blasts that rocked the Pickwick House restaurant 10 N. Northwest Hwy. Palatine, LeGourmet Restaurant, 500 Rand Rd., Wheeling Township, and the Arlington Park Theatre, part of the Arlington Park Race Track Hilton Hotel complex in Arlington Heights.

Two other suburban restaurants, in Lisle and Bridgeview, were bombed in the early morning hours of May 12 about 90 minutes before the Pickwick House blast.

In March, LeGourmet wes hit by a pipebomb that damaged walls, ceiling and furniture.

ABOUT A month later the theater, then plagued with management troubles, was the scene of a bombing that destroyed a light control panel. Investigators said there was evidence that the hanging ceiling of the theater was sabotaged and a fire had been set, but failed to spread.

Carey said "hard evidence" turned up by his office and other investigating agencies is "enough to start this investigation."

The investigation will attempt to determine what role, if any, organized crime elements had in the attacks.

Carey said witnesses provided a license number of a car seen speeding away from two of the May explosions. He said the license number has been traced to man with links to organized crime.

Previous investigations into the blasts spawned reports that mobsters were attempting to force their way into the restaurant business. Avenues of possible mob involvement include unions, linen service and food and liquor suppliers, investigators said.

LINKS BETWEEN the bombings of LeGourmet and the Arlington Park Theater were examined earlier because of the close personal relationship between David Lonn, former theater producer, and the owners of the restaurant.

Carey said the grand jury investigation will focus on possible "common relations" in all the attacks.

An aide to Carey said the action of the State's Attorney's office does not rule out the possibility of a federal grand jury also investigating the bombings.

CB radio patrol organizational meeting tonight

An organizational meeting of the Neighborhood Watch Citizens Band Radio Patrol will be at 8 p.m. today at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Deputy Chief Paul Buckholz of the police department said Trustee Robert H. Miller, chairman of the Zero-Vandalism Commission will speak at the meeting. A slide presentation on the police department communication center also will be shown.

The Neighborhood Watch program was organized to combat vandalism and other crimes in the village by providing the police with "an extra set of eyes and ears" through citizen involvement, Buckholz said.

The increasing popularity of the Citizens Band radio is hoped to be incorporated into an expanded residents' participation program, he said.

Homeowners' organizations and Citizens Band radio operators who previously expressed an interest in the project were invited to the meeting, Buckholz said.

Some gains for suburbs in school-aid bill changes

by STEVE BROWN

The Illinois Senate Education Committee made additional changes to the school-aid formula revision bill Tuesday.

Suburban school districts would derive some benefits from the amendments to the bill, which was originally drafted by State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, but the real winners apparently are the Chicago public schools.

Jaffe's bill, approved by the Illinois House last week, was drafted initially to help school districts with declining enrollment, but amendments would delay immediate help to the suburbs and actually reduce the amount of state aid most suburban districts received next year.

THE NEW BENEFITS to suburban schools would:

- Liberalize the tax rate rollback provisions, and
- Reduce the tax rate districts must have to qualify for maximum state school aid.

An elimination of the tax rate rollback was tacked onto Jaffe's bill in the house.

The current school-aid formula requires school districts to reduce their tax rates in proportion to the amount of state aid received.

The new amendments will drop that reduction requirement and allow school districts to raise their tax rates above the present legal limit with the approval of voters. Most suburban districts are at or near the limit.

A second potential benefit to suburban elementary districts approved by the committee lowers the qualifying tax rate elementary school districts must attain to receive the maximum amount of state aid. The qualifying rate was dropped from $1.95 to $1.92. More suburban districts would be made eligible for increases in state aid because they are near the $1.92 level.

THE MOST controversial amendment attached to the bill was a move by State Sen. Michael Brady, D-Chicago, to lessen the penalty on Chicago schools for closing 16 days early this year.

State law presently reuires Chicago to repay $55 million for closing early. However, a plan was presented by Brady to allow Chicago to avoid $20 million in repayments this year. The money will be subtracted from the amount of state aid Chicago would have received if the school-aid formula were fully funded. The formula was not fully funded and Chicago never got the $20 million.

Further credits would be given to Chicago over the next five years against additional funds that city schools would have received if the school-aid formula were fully funded.

"It is a very clever device," said State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, a member of the Senate Education Committee.

Observers noted the Brady plan would allow Chicago to avoid repaying the actual cash it already has received by deducting it from an imaginary amount the city schools never expected to receive this year.

The same situation would continue until the entire $55 million is erased.

Officials tell citizens

Help stop Busse Woods rowdies

by DAVE IBATA

Northwest suburban and county police officials Tuesday called for citizen participation in keeping rowdies out of Busse Woods in Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Young persons have harassed picnickers, destroyed forest preserve property, and bought, sold and used stolen goods and narcotics in Busse Woods because "everybody's scared to death of these people, and they know it," said Lt. Frank Braun, of the Cook County Sheriff's police.

"Until citizens come forth to sign complaints and identify felons in court, rowdies will continue to believe they can cause trouble without fear of the law," Braun said.

A meeting of area officials to discuss drug, vandal and juvenile problems at Busse Woods, near Elk Grove Village, was held Tuesday afternoon in the Elk Grove Village Municipal Building.

POLICE AND VILLAGE officials from Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, and representatives of the Cook County Sheriff's police, the county board, the forest preserve district, the state's attorney's office and the Illinois State police attended the meeting.

Chief Richard Sloan of the forest preserve rangers told the meeting his men have the 3,692 acres in Busse Woods under control.

The forest preserve has been the target of a crackdown against rowdy persons and traffic in stolen goods and narcotics. Sloan said rangers have arrested 461 persons during the past four weeks at Busse Woods on charges ranging from illegal parking to heroin possession.

Virginia Hayter, village president of Hoffman Estates, urged police to maintain order in the forest preserve.

CITIZENS, MRS. HAYTER said, "are frightened, they're scared to death; society is afraid of its own children." She called for an end to narcotics traffic in Busse Woods.

Braun said agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group are working undercover at the forest presrve in an effort to snare drug pushers.

Lt. H. S. McGinley of the Illinois State police, however, said MEG has only 100 agents working in northeastern Illinois, an area which contains 57 per cent of the state's population. The problem, he said, is one of manpower.

Sloan said only nine rangers are assigned to cover Busse Woods and Deer Grove Forest Preserve near Palatine. Forest preserve officials have assigned a 15-man Special Operations Group to aid in the Busse Woods crackdown.

In handling of youth disturbances, Chief Harry Jenkins of the Elk Grove Village police proposed drafting a cooperative plan for state, county, forest preserve and village police agencies. Jenkins also suggested better communications between police agencies.

Other proposals for Busse Woods included speed bumps in forest preserve roads, a ban on motorcycles, and guards at forest preserve entrances.

Pikarsky backs public probe of RTA operation

Milton Pikarsky, chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority, has endorsed a public inquiry into RTA operations to quell the ongoing controversy over management of the agency.

Pikarsky said he believes the inquiry will show the RTA is functioning well, despite charges by four suburban board members that Pikarsky is mismanaging the agency.

The four have threatened to block passage of the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 unless Pikarsky resigns.

THE INQUIRY was proposed by the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry, which offered to recommend the names of three management consulting firms.

"The association urges that the fiscal year 1977 budget be adopted and the status quo on the RTA act be maintained," Pikarsky said, referring to efforts in the Illinois General Assembly to limit the chairman's power. "As chairman of the RTA, I support the concept of the CACI proposal."

Pikarsky said he will call for the RTA board to appropriate funds for this study at a board meeting today, but expressed doubts that action would be taken by the board before the current budget expires.

Stating that the study deserves "immediate attention and quick action," Pikarsky suggested that the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry select a team to study the RTA.

"From among its membership, the association could select a team of hard-headed businessmen from the city and suburbs with specialties in finance, personnel, planning, transportation and administration to examine the operations of the authority and publicly report their findings," he said.

The RTA board is scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. today at 300 N. State St., Chicago, to award a contract for leasing tires.

When you know where you're going, but don't know how to get there, call the Regional Transportation Authority's new travel information center.

The center, scheduled to go into effect June 22, will provide information on bus and train schedules, routes and stops 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The center also will have information about city and suburban transportation systems and transfer points.

The new center is an expansion of the present Chicago Transportation Authority service, which began operation in 1974.

To reach the center, call 800-972-7000 from the suburbs or 836-7000 from Chicago.

'Declare independence' Hartigan tells seniors

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

A "declaration of independence" for senior citizens — and the awareness to carry it out — were urged Tuesday by Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan to nearly 100 participants in a Harper College Conference on Aging.

Hartigan addressed the senior citizens as part of a day-long conference held at Rolling Meadows High School, and his remarks centered on the need for older citizens to "decide your own priorities and change all the good will into results."

"I've never seen so many people say, 'we're all for senior citizens,' but we don't have the capacity to get things done as you can," Hartigan said. "The best advocates for senior citizens are yourselves."

Hartigan said since his term of office began in 1973, 37 bills pertaining to senior citizens were introduced at the state level, but only 3 passed, due in part to a lack of awareness and involvement by seniors.

HE SAID WHILE $38 million had been paid out to seniors through a state sales tax relief program, another $119 million from a real estate tax relief and supplementary income programs went back into the general fund because few eligible citizens applied.

"The 1.6 million elderly in this state can make a big impact," Hartigan said. "Right now there are 44 different programs that are supposed to serve senior citizens, but there's probably not one person in this room who is aware of three of them.

"The key is to redirect some of that money into programs that you say meet your needs . . . it doesn't make any difference what it looks like through my eyes," he said.

The way we see it

Lindberg plan has little new

State Comptroller George Lindberg proved last week that he is an able collector of plans to save the state from fiscal disaster.

He took elements of Gov. Dan Walker's proposals and those of legislative leaders, rolled them into one, and came out with the blueprint to avoid state bankruptcy.

Lindberg called for no new spending programs, a hold the line policy on current spending, and approval of Walker's accelerated tax collection plan. He labeled his plan for fiscal 1977 a "year of sacrifice."

A close eye on state spending certainly is needed, but we question how realistic Lindberg's program is. We also question how receptive the Illinois General Assembly is toward implementing it.

Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee's refusal to grant Lindberg a joint session of the House and Senate is a good indication that the Democratic majority is not too interested in the Republican's plan.

We must admit that while Lindberg's suggestion might be enough to prevent a tax hike, we have to recall Lindberg's charges against Walker. He pointed the finger and accused Walker of not providing a real solution to the problem. We aren't convinced Lindberg has a real solution either.

A state that must go three years without new programs is not a state that will develop solutions to the problems of its residents.

Another plank of the Lindberg program calls for a careful monitoring of spending. This is something, we believe, that should be put into effect in this state.

In general, we do not believe Lindberg's plan turns over any new ground in the state fiscal problems. It does provide a collection of thoughts previously espoused by Lindberg, Walker and others.

Even taken as a whole, the plan has shortcomings. It begs the question of how long Illinois can operate at current levels without new revenue. If the plan is not followed, Lindberg avers, tax increase is inevitable.

If this is the case and if Lindberg and other state officials are going to serve Illinois responsibly, the call for spending cutbacks and other techniques ought to be coupled with a thorough study of the need for new revenues.

One recent Illinois governor was voted out of office because he "discovered" the need for new taxation only after his election. Illinois politicians who are dancing around the issue today should be a little more candid; in the long run, avoidance of the issue can only backfire.

No applause, please! Just give me your votes!

Extension agent aids urban folk, too

by WANDALYN RICE

For many years the county extension agent, with expertise from a large university on subjects like crop and animal husbandry, has been a standard part of the rural American scene.

In Illinois, the extension agents are from the University of Illinois; for years they have worked with farmers and sponsored 4-H groups in the state's rural communities.

It comes as a surprise to many, however, to discover that the University of Illinois Extension Service has offices in Cook County, one at 4200 W. Euclid Ave., Rolling Meadows and four in Chicago, one right near the Robert Taylor housing project on Chicago's south side.

Officials in the Cook County extension program hope to change the surprise to support over the next few weeks as they lobby for support from the Cook County board for an increase in the program's budget.

"We haven't been very successful in getting the county board to appropriate funds for us," Carl Mees, director of the Cook County program says.

By law, the county may appropriate up to $225,000 to support the program, but during the past year the county has provided just $45,000, Mees says.

In the next few weeks extension officials will be trying to get the county to increase the appropriation for next year to $150,000, Mees says, an amount that would, among other things, pay for increased telephone lines and more clerical help.

Mees says, "We don't even try to tell people we're here because we can't serve all the people who know about us."

Among the persons who knew about the extension program in 1975 were more than 22,000 young people in 4-H programs, including 9,220 black youths, most from Chicago. And those 4-Hers weren't raising cows for a county fair.

"The only thing our 4-H'ers can't do is a project involving a large animal who needs a barn," says Molly Weiss, a youth advisor with the county extension office on North Belmont Avenue in Chicago.

In addition to the 4-H programs, county extension officials in Chicago and the suburbs also provide advice to families on how to improve their diets and budget for food through a nutrition education program and answer questions on huge varieties of subjects that come in over the phone.

The nutrition program, funded by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, involved community workers (hired directly from communities) going door-to-door to offer help to women trying to make do on food stamps and welfare, Thomascean Brandon, a home economist who works out of the Belmont Avenue office, says.

The nutrition program in 1975 reached 3,300 families with a total of more than 14,000 individuals, most of them children. And, Mrs. Brandon says, the program has helped people. "Many times people will get donated food but they won't know how to fix it," she says. "We can help them so it doesn't go to waste."

Advice over the telephone is even more popular than other extension programs. Persons call the extension office entomologist for advice on how to get rid of problem insects and call the home economists for advice on what to feed their families or how to prepare certain foods.

Those calls aren't necessarily from low-income persons, but are occasionally from cooks in real distress. "A lot of people who call are in the process of cooking something and have it on the stove when they decide they need help," Mrs. Brandon says.

'Parliamentary beartrap'

Senate cloture backfires

by CHERYL ARVIDSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The masters of delay are once again teaching the Senate that cutting off debate does not always speed the passage of legislation.

The Senate leadership relies on a procedure called cloture to limit debate on highly controversial bills and speed final votes.

A "parliamentary beartrap" is how Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd describes cloture because of the severe restraints it imposes on lawmakers — only one hour of speech per senator is allowed — and the limits it puts on amendments.

But the Senate's consideration of the antitrust law reform bill was another example — perhaps the most blatant in recent years — of how cloture is not the easiest way out of a filibuster.

The majority was reminded of the extent that opponents can use the rules to delay an objectionable bill even after the debate-limiting cloture vote is taken.

In the past, cloture was looked on as a cure for the filibuster, a procedure whereby a handful of opponents can tie up Senate business and literally talk a bill to death.

To make it easier to cut off filibusters, the Senate recently changed its rules to require 60 votes to impose cloture rather than the previous two-thirds. And as the number of liberals in the Senate increased, cloture has become easier to get.

But the minority knows the rules book and proved during the antitrust bill that cloture can be turned against the majority. The key is filing a lot of amendments before the debate-limiting vote occurs and demanding a lot of roll call votes once cloture is approved.

"Much has been said in recent days about the tyranny of the majority," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield in a fit of anger over the snail's pace progress on the bill. "But what about the tyranny of the minority? Is the majority without rights?

"An objective observer of the Senate for the past week would have to conclude that not only does the majority have no rights but that the minority controls the leadership function of the Senate."

Control spending by appropriating smaller amounts

A recent Paddock editorial urged the standardizing of revenue projections among the three major agencies of Illinois state government involved: the bureau of the budget, comptroller and economicand fiscal commission. Since I had been under the impression that these practices already are standardized, I did some further checking.

I was advised that each of the agencies uses the Chase Econometrics model for determining national trends on which they base their projections of state revenues. Thus the estimating units do utilize the same basic methodology. Furthermore, according to the comptroller's office, the resultant revenue estimates are now fairly comparable. For FY '77, the bureau of the budget estimate is higher than the other two agencies by about $50 million, or 1 per cent. In estimating revenue sources as complex as the state income tax and sales tax, and considering administrative discretion in the timing of processing collections and receipts, this is not much of a difference.

Thus while there is essentially a consensus on the 1976 and 1977 revenue estimates, we now need a consensus on what this means for the fiscal health of the state. At minimum, it means that Illinois is spending more than it is taking in, that it has a very low cash balance on hand and that the margin for error in the revenue projections is small. Under the most optimistic projections and assuming no spending which is not in the governor's budget, by next October the state's cash reserves will dwindle to the point where we will be unable to pay our bills in timely fashion.

The clear message is to hold down spending for the remainder of this fiscal year and hold down appropriations for fiscal 1977.

Words of praise

To Dorothy Meyer, with great affection: Over the years your writing in the Paddock papers has given me much pleasure and, incidentally, the Xerox Corp. no little income from the copies fired off to family and friends. Life is simply too short to take things as seriously as most of us do. It's the little things that gripe the dickens out of us . . . we can take the war in Lebanon, child molestation and the swine flu in stride.

Thank you so much for the pleasure and smiles your column provides.

Mrs. B. H. Morse
Prospect Heights

Thank you for your coverage of our efforts to save the "Socrates Rand Cottage."

Your coverage helped bring to light many citizens interested in saving some "relics of our past" to remind us of our heritage during this Bicentennial year.

Individual commitments for restoration, for finances and for time were not enough for us to save the "cottage." I, however, thank all of those who were interested, involved and offering assistance.

Again, press coverage was essential in advising the community of our efforts. Maybe during this Bicentennial year we will all think a little more about our beginnings as a country — the freedoms sought — the opportunities available — the goals we seek — and not only our heritage but our future.

Hits board cuts

Dist. 59 has prided itself in the special education programs it has offered for many years. In fact many parents throughout the district have recently written letters of praise to our director of pupil personnel and the special education staff who have been responsible for developing and maintaining the excellent programs that have been offered to our children.

Now it seems there are changes being made to our programs for what appears to be change's sake. Specifically, we as parents are greatly concerned with regard to the decentralization of some special ed and student services departments. We no longer will have a department head who is knowledgeable as to all our children's special needs making the decisions, but rather having the principals making these decisions. Our great concern is that many of the principals are not knowledgeable in the field of special education and thus are not qualified to make these decisions as to our children's special needs.

The new state regulations governing student services spell out the school district's responsibilities in regard to our children and also the rights that we as parents have. We believe it is necessary for the administration and the board of education to re-read over very carefully these state regulations before making your final decisions as to changes in the special education and student services departments.

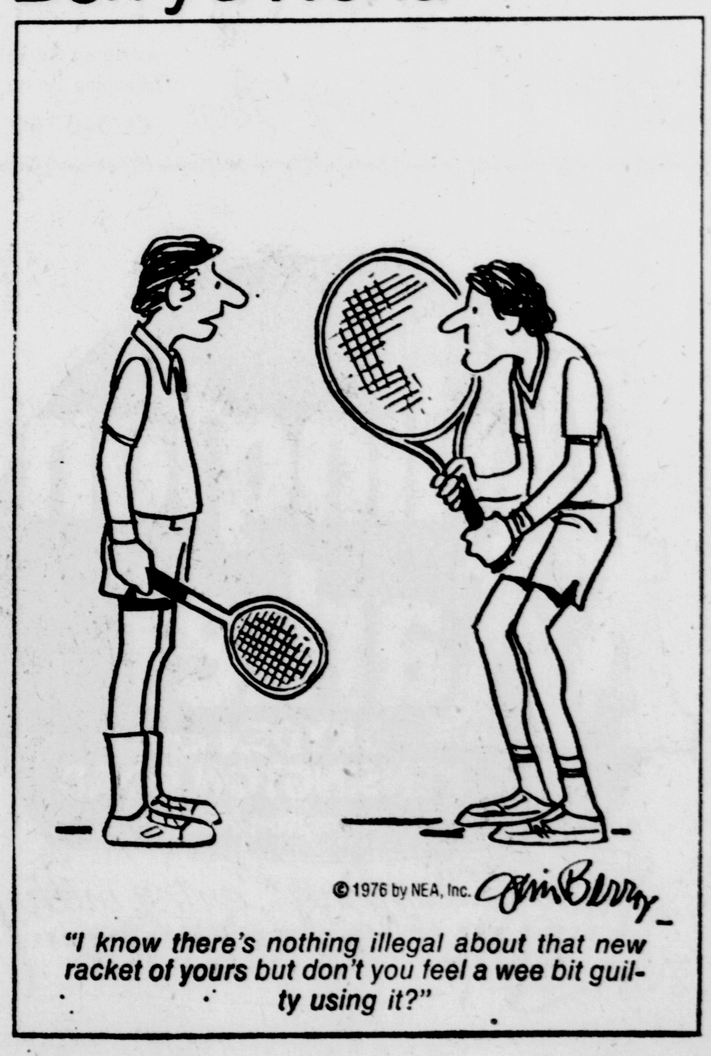

We do not feel the district can fulfill its responsibilities as established by the state regulations if special education and student services departments are decentralized.

We will not accept anything less than what we have had in the past years and that is a central figure, one who is knowledgeable as to our children's special needs, heading our programs.

We ask the administration and board of education to understand that we cannot and will not negotiate with our children's future.

And more job satisfaction

Communication key to success

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

John pondered what his boss had just related to him:

"John, we're changing your work detail. After all these years, the Big Boys upstairs have decided to put two framistats into every order instead of just one. Don't ask me why. You're in charge of seeing that it gets done properly."

Simple enough? Perhaps. Just put in two framistats instead of one. But John was upset. He was being told that his longstanding routine was being changed and for reasons he wasn't supposed to ask about. And he was concerned that if the job didn't get done properly, he'd take the blame. After all, did the Big Boys upstairs know the specific problems involved in installing the framistats? Maybe two wouldn't fit? Maybe there weren't enough in stock to put two in every order? Maybe the extra time needed to install the extra framistat would delay the whole process, meaning late shipments and unhappy customers?

As is often the case, John blamed the messenger, his boss, rather than the message. Some sparks flew, to the benefit of no one.

WHETHER A framistat is an extra glob of glue or a sophisticated electronic circuit or whatever doesn't matter. The example points out some of the basic human problems in communication that can have a dangerous effect on both the individuals and the work to be done.

Dr. Jamie Weinstein is a psychologist and director of education for The Innovative Group, a La Jolla, Calif. — based firm which designs learning systems for business. The firm's aim is to bridge the often wide gap between management goals and operational tasks, and to help motivate employes to work creatively, productively and thus more profitably for themselves and their companies.

Dr. Weinstein's premise is that if we become better communicators, we can become better workers — and that means more job satisfaction, both now and for the future.

Whether the communications are spoken face to face, or over the telephone, or in writing, and whether they are with superiors, equals or subordinates, how you handle them can make a drastic difference in the ultimate result. John and the framistats is a case in point. He has the opportunity of performing a job well, or he could be responsible for a job begrudgingly, and possibly improperly, done.

AMONG THE attributes of a good communicator, suggests Dr. Weinstein, are a cool, clear head: one which will pause to reflect on what's been said, to analyze, to balance, to calmly weigh all of the factors involved. Communication is a two-way street; and while most of us are quick to speak our mind, many of us lack the skills of a good listener.

Achievement of a goal requires mutual understanding between speaker and listener. A breakdown can result simply by the speaker neglecting to ask, "Are you sure you understand me?" Or by a listener failing to reply, "I'm not sure I've got the idea of what you're trying to tell me."

Quite often, as in the case of John and the framistats, communication in a work setting involves some kind of change, and human nature all too frequently rebels against change. Status quo is a disease we're all heir to. Dr. Weinstein sees change as a pathway to opportunity. "It's just common sense that change is inevitable. Fighting it is a losing battle, but it can work in your favor if you allow it. Turn the tables and take advantage of change for self-motivation. Tell yourself, "Change isn't an inconvenience. It's an opportunity for new personal growth, and I want to grow,' " he said.

On the other hand, maybe two framistats is a bad idea, and you can grow by proving it. Either way, grab the initiative and run with it.

Dow average down by 5 on Senate vote on oil bill

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit taking and proposed legislation to break up the oil companies were major factors as prices lost ground Tuesday for the first time in four sessions in easier trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Most observers, who anticipated the early profit taking, were impressed with the way the market had begun to rally in the afternoon. But the Senate Judiciary Committee's 8-to-7 vote approving a bill to break up the nation's 18 largest oil companies took the steam out of the late drive.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, a 12.44-point winner Monday, lost 5.32 points to 985.92. Off about six points at one time, the Dow average trimmed its loss to little more than two points before the Senate news was broke.

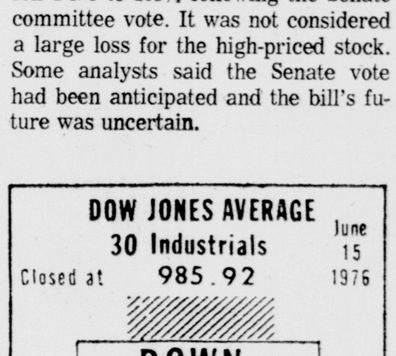

THE CLOSELY watched blue-chip average had climbed 33.15 points the previous three sessions in a rally sparked by indications Federal Reserve Board economic policies had contained inflation, yet left enough room for the economy to expand.

On a broader scale, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.49 to 101.46, the NYSE common stock index slipped 0.23 to 54.04 and the average price of an NYSE common share surrendered 15 cents.

Declines topped advances, 778 to 585, among the 1,859 issues crossing the tape. But 496 unchanged issues indicated some investor uncertainty and showed the selling pressure was not strong.

VOLUME TOTALED 18,440,000 shares, down from the 21,250,000 traded Monday, the heaviest trading session in three weeks.

Exxon, the nation's largest oil firm, fell 1-3/8 to 103¼ following the Senate committee vote. It was not considered a large loss for the high-priced stock. Some analysts said the Senate vote had been anticipated and the bill's future was uncertain.

Business briefs

Panel OKs breakup of 18 big oil firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday approved 8 to 7 a bill to break up the nation's 18 biggest petroleum companies, confining each to narrower areas of operation.

Opponents pledged to continue their fight against the legislation on the Senate floor. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., told reporters: "Divestiture can be beaten. It's certain to be vetoed. And we could sustain a veto."

Under the bill, the big oil firms would be given 18 months to file a five-year plan for separating its exploration and production from its refining and marketing operations.

With some exceptions, oil producers, refiners and marketers would not be allowed to own pipelines. Refiners could keep service stations, but no more than they were operating as of last Jan. 1.

Qualifying as "major" companies under the bill's criteria would be Exxon, Texaco, Shell, Standard of Indiana, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Atlantic-Richfield, Getty, Union, Sun, Phillips, Continental, Cities Service, Marathon, BP-Sohio, Amerada Hess and Ashland.

25% hike for Teamster brass

Top Teamster officials already accused of lining their pockets with members' money, were granted a 25 per cent salary increase Tuesday by the union convention. It boosted Pres. Frank Fitzsimmons to about $156,000 a year. A dues increase also was expected to be approved on grounds that the union, although rich with investment capital, is currently operating at a loss.

Senate OKs workmen comp bill

The Illinois Senate Tuesday passed and sent to the House a Democratic-backed workmen's compensation bill reducing some of the benefit increases enacted last year. The measure (S1967) passed by a vote of 43-1. Only Sen. Frank Ozinger, R-Evergreen Park, voted against it. The other 13 Republicans on the floor voted present.

The bill would reduce death or permanent total disability benefits from an unlimited amount to a maximum of $10,660. The bill also includes revisions providing that only ailments aggravated on the job would qualify a worker for benefits, exempting more "family" farms from workmen's coverage and extending exemption of domestic help from coverage for another two years until 1980.

Illegal campaign donations told

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. agreed to federal charges Tuesday that the corporation illegally contributed more than $300,000 to campaigns of federal, state and local politicians. The alleged violations occurred between November 1970, and May 1973, the Securities and Exchange Commission said.

"WE WELCOME THE WHOLESALE TRADE"

IN AN OFFICE CORNER of her bedroom, Elaine Tench of Arlington Heights spends about an hour and a half each day ("when the spirit moves me") as a volunteer Braillist, transcribing print into Braille for the blind. She has become adept at reading Braille by sight, though not by touch.

Volunteer Braillist

Transcriber for blind learns as she serves

by ELEANOR RIVES

It was just a little item in the newspaper. But it happened to hit Elaine Tench at the right moment — just when she had decided to stop dribbling away her spare time and do something useful.

The 1969 article described the need of the Johanna Bureau for the Blind and Visually Handicapped for volunteer Braille transcribers. It struck a chord. Elaine was a widow of a few years and time was one of her available commodities. Her husband had been chairman of the Blind Activities Committee of the Lions Club.

With a friend in tow, she made a trip to the Bureau in downtown Chicago and was given the grand tour — the music and math departments, the library, the duplicating room. She agreed to take the first three lessons, designed to help volunteers decide if they are really interested.

She was really interested.

EQUIPPED WITH a Brailler (like a baby typewriter, but oh, so different!), reams of special master copy paper, books and assignments, all courtesy of the Bureau, she has been transcribing print into Braille ever since.

"For the first six months, I went down to the Bureau every week to have my homework proofed," said Elaine. "There's a crack proofreader down there — a blind woman — who tells you where you goofed. She's a real brain."

It takes six to eight months to master Braille transcription and become certified by the Library of Congress in Washington. Elaine was certified in November 1969. Now she and Helen Smiekel, a neighbor Braillist, take their work to the Bureau together.

"IT'S HARDER TO type Braille than you think. It's not just a matter of ABCs," said Elaine. "With only six keys used in various combinations, and a spacer, you turn out the entire alphabet, mathematics, foreign languages, music — just about anything."

In Braille, as in speedwriting, there are many short forms that must be learned by transcribers and blind readers alike. "Tomorrow" is shortened to "tom"; "decline" to "decl"; "immediate" to "imm." The word "nevertheless" becomes "n" plus the sign for "ever" plus the sign for "the" plus the sign for "less."

Elaine transcribes textbooks, Sunday School papers, novels, medical papers, but leaves math, music and foreign language to others. The work to be done is graded for beginner, average or advanced. She is advanced.

A BEGINNER is apt to start on a short novel, not too difficult. And every beginner can count on getting "The Life of Louis Braille," the man who, in 1929, invented the system.

"Ninety pages in Braille are termed a 'volume'," she explained. "A medium-sized textbook transcribes to four volumes." She can finish such a textbook in the course of a week. "It takes 5 or 6 minutes to do one page of Braille," she added. "One printed page transcribes into two and a half Braille pages." The pages a transcriber turns out are master copies and may be duplicated at the Bureau in whatever quantity is needed.

When Elaine transcribes a cookbook, she might just help herself to a recipe. When she transcribes a novel, such as "Murder in Canton," she resists her desire to read ahead so she won't lose interest.

"EVERYTHING I transcribe is different," she said. "That's what makes it so fascinating."

One of her more recent efforts was transcribing lunch and dinner menus into Braille for the Magic Pan Creperies. Now blind customers can make their food selections without help.

The Johanna Bureau, with about 350 volunteers providing various types of service, does a tremendous amount of textbook work, providing materials for students from pre-school through post-graduate levels and on into adult careers. It provides materials in Braille for the Chicago Public Library, for the Library of Congress in Washington, and for the Iowa Commission in Des Moines, one of the largest libraries for the blind in the United States.

ACCORDING TO Lorraine Jackson, executive chairman, the Bureau is desperately in need of more volunteer Braillists. Anyone interested may call her at 332-6076 for more information.

"It's a type of volunteer work that's a little different," said Elaine. "It helps the blind, but it helps the volunteer, too. It makes you think — and it's bound to rub off on you. You would be surprised how much you learn."

A problem for marriage counselor, not lawyer

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

I am married for a second time and have a daughter who is 19. She contributes her share at home and has never caused either of us a bit of trouble. Now my husband wants her to move out.

I don't think it's fair because when we married seven years ago, I sold my house and helped with the down payment on another one. We now have a third house in joint tenancy. My marriage has been shaky for the past few years.

I own half of the house. Don't I have something to say? If my daughter chooses to leave, I would give her my blessings and let her go. But does he have the right to ask her to leave? Where do I stand legally as a wife and mother? — Worried Mother.

Dear Worried Mother,

As a mother, I understand your dilemma, but I am sorry to say that I must view your problem more in the light of marriage counseling than legal help.

• You state that the house is half yours. By the same token, half of the house belongs to him too. Neither of you has to accept a third person's living in your house without the consent of the other. Unfortunately, in this instance, your daughter is this "third person" since you did not say that he adopted her.

• Apparently, your husband does not relate to her as a father. But even if he did, or if he were her real father, he could still expect your daughter to leave when she reached legal age (18), if employed and mentally and physically able to take care of herself.

• The only legal solution I can think of is that either you buy his interest in the house or vice versa. But while solving one problem, you may be creating another: the break-up of your marriage. It's a tough decision, but you are the only person who can make it.

H. L. — While your ex-husband may refuse to let your present husband adopt your child, there is an alternative. You are concerned because your first child has a name different than the two who belong to you and your present husband and that it may cause this child some embarrassment in explaining the difference.

A name changing procedure would permit your first child to take his stepfather's name. His natural father's consent is not necessary providing it can be shown that the change of name is for the best interests of the child.

Correction: In the June 2 column, "Wife Seeks Fair Divorce Settlement," I inadvertently omitted "and child support" in a sentence that should have read: "Each case is decided on its merits, but ordinarily a court might grant as alimony and child support anywhere from one-third to one-half of the husband's income, if children must be supported."

(Readers are invited to submit questions regarding legal problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Attorney Martoccio's column is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Don't leave it to chance, Plan for wedding dance

Want to dance at your wedding? Then don't pick your dance band as you would a lottery ticket, advises choreographer and dance instructor Mayphine Van Zant.

Audition the combo before you hire them, she says. Ask to hear the types of music they play and what songs are in their repertoire. Make sure they can play a combination of dance steps to please guests of all ages. Tell the head musician what you want. Find out how long the group will play and whether they take requests. Then get it all in writing.

Ms. Van Zant, who teaches in the MONACEP Adult Education Program in this area and at several YMCAs in Chicago, says you can avoid embarrassment for wedding party members with two left feet by having someone at the rehearsal to demonstrate basic steps.

It's also a good idea to enlist a sociable friend of the bridal pair to coordinate the various dances at the wedding, which should include mixers, she says. And she also suggests using "line dances that require a leader. Guests simply follow the leader regardless of how good dancers they are.

Dance numbers should be coordinated with the band's repertoire before the wedding, she emphasizes.

WASHING WINDOWS IS part of a shopkeeper's lot, but Jo Wood and Helen Lenart find a little clowning makes a dull job more fun. Mrs. Wood is president of the Over the Rainbow Association which recently opened a thrift shop at 1645 Oakton St., Des Plaines. Staffed by volunteers and with merchandise furnished by businesses and individuals the shop is open 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Proceeds will go toward a residential facility to house physically handicapped adolescents and adults. Those with donations may call the shop, 297-4233.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Child's blood type can differ from parents'

Recently on a television program a man said that a child had to have the same blood type as one or the other of the parents. Is this true?

I am a man 69 years old and was married 38 years and we had three children. Our marriage was fairly good, but we had some differences stemming from her previous marriage which resulted in three children.

My blood type is O positive and hers A positive. Two of my children had my blood type and they resembled me both in looks and make-up. The other child did not follow either my blood type or his mother's but had a rare type of blood (two letters and a negative). He also looked different. Could this mean I am not his father?

This son is married and has four children. I love him, always have and always will and this secret, if it is a secret, will die with me. He shall never know.

My wife has been dead for four years now and I have not and will not marry again. I hold nothing against her in any way and expect to meet her again in heaven. Can you give me any positive answer or literature that would settle this question?

The problem of blood types and parentage is sufficiently complicated that I think people should rely on their doctor for an explanation. In the first place, we all have two genes to make up our blood type. Your wife, for example, must have been AO not just A. Both of your blood type genes are O. Some people consider type O as a neutral or no blood type. That is because the red blood cells contain no substance for blood typing. A parent transmits only one of his or her genes to the offspring. The O gene is the weak gene. So an AO and BO couple (classed as type A and type B) could have a child with type A, B, AB or O blood.

You are talking about the Rh factor. Both you and your wife were Rh positive. Most of the children from such a union would be Rh positive, but you also have two genes for the Rh factor. There is a dominant gene (D) and a weak gene (d) and each parent transmits only one of the genes to the child. Hence, if both parents were DD (Rh positive), all the children would be. If both were dd (Rh negative), all the children would be dd or Rh negative.

THE COMPLEXITY occurs when both parents have Dd (also Rh positive) paired genes. On a chance basis one child will be dd (Rh negative). This is how two Rh positive (Dd parents) have an Rh negative offspring.

To give you more information about the standard blood types, Rh factor and blood transfusions I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-4. Other readers who want this information can forward 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex.

If the information you have given me is correct, I would assume your son is either type A Rh negative or type O Rh negative. And he would be your son even though he has Rh negative blood.

Love is not based on genes. Parents can and do love an adopted child as much or more than one with their own genes. The important thing in your relationship with your son is that he is a product of your own loving upbringing. Nothing can change that. Knowing that he can have a different blood type than the Rh positive type you and your wife had may help you feel better about your relationship with your late wife.

Sloppy Joes please hungry teen-agers

Dear Dorothy: "How about 'Sloppy Joes'?" asked one of my teenagers when I expressed bewilderment on what to feed the small army that congregates around our place weekends. Clearly, I'm behind the times. Looked in three cookbooks and find no such thing. You're everybody's "crutch" in emergencies. How?—Brooke Coulter

A whole set of plusses here, Brooke — not only do the young love them, but they're simple to make and inexpensive, to boot. These easy instructions make enough for six: Crumble one pound of ground beef into a heated frying pan and add a chopped onion and one teaspoon of salt. Cook until the meat is browned. Stir in one-half cup of catsup and one-quarter cup of mustard or one eight-ounce can of tomato sauce. Cook slowly until hot. This makes six half-cup servings which you pour over warm buns.

Dear Dorothy: Your column recommended cheap vanilla to get rid of an animal odor on a rug. I found this worked on an odor in the extra refrigerator we keep in the basement. Just saturated a cloth with vanilla, wiped every part of the refrigerator, then closed the door. Odor vanished.—Mrs. J. C. Forsberg

Dear Dorothy: New at it, I don't get the point of tree dressing after the normal tree pruning, and so forth.—Jessica Shields.

Any cut half an inch or more takes quite a while to heal and gives insects easy entrance. That's why it's important.

Dear Dorothy: Others might like my way of making Cafe Mocha. Just make a cup of hot cocoa and add one teaspoon of instant coffee.—J. Wootten

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Kathie Thuerk— Ronald Chesnut

In a 3 p.m. ceremony May 15 that took place in the home of her parents, Kathie Darlene Thuerk, daughter of the Ervin D. Thuerks of Arlington Heights, became the bride of Ronald Chesnut, son of the Bernard L. Chesnuts of Normal, Ill. The buffet reception for 65 guests was also held in the Thuerk home.

Officiating at the double ring service was Dr. James P. Martin of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

Kathie chose a white linen dress with eyelet lace trim, and a wreath of fresh stephanotis and baby's breath with variegated ivy for her headpiece. Her flowers were phalaenopsis orchids and variegated ivy.

A '69 GRADUATE of Prospect High and a '73 graduate of Colorado State University with a degree in food science and nutrition, Kathie has been employed as a home economist and test kitchen manager for Sphere Magazine in Chicago.

The groom, who was in the Navy from 1966 to 1970, was a partner in a heating and air conditioning business and is now with Union Tank Car Co., Chicago. He and Kathie will be making their home in California, and their honeymoon was the trip west.

Clubwomen sell new book

The presentation of the new book, "Illinois Women — Born to Serve," which includes stories of the lives of women who helped make life better for all who live in Illinois, was one of the highlights of the recent convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

The book, by Evelyn Witter and David R. Collins, was commissioned by the IFWC as a Bicentennial "Horizons" project, and the authors were at the convention, held at the Palmer House, to autograph copies for delegates.

Members of Prospect Heights Woman's Club are among IFWC members selling the $2.50 book. Readers may order it from Mrs. F. M. Krempel, 408 N. Schoenbeck Road, Prospect Heights, Ill. 60070.

The Prospect Heights Club will be presenting a copy of "Illinois Women — Born to Serve" to the Prospect Heights Library.

Grandpa's Radio

by Ed Landwehr

The technician who serviced Grandpa's radio back about 1925 serviced it with a screwdriver, pliers and a simple meter worth maybe $5.00. He spent a couple of hours on the job, not because the radio was complicated, but because he didn't have any other efficient tools to ferret out the trouble. It was hit and miss until he found it.

Today on a much more complex TV, a technician takes an average of a half hour, but, he uses numerous precision instruments. For example, the equipment at Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center for maintaining color television is valued at many thousands of dollars. And new equipment is periodically added to keep up with changing designs. But our maintenance is fast and accurate.

When you phone 255-0700 we guarantee your satisfaction. And stop in at 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights to register Dad for Free Tickets to Bears — Cubs — Sox!

Molecules remodeled into plastic

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Scott Wylie, 10, of Lancaster, Pa., for his question:
HOW IS PLASTIC MADE?

A general inventory of the items in your house would turn up a great many things made from plastics of one kind or another. Clear as glass or rainbow-colored, plastic can be hard as a brick or soft as a glove. It can turn up as part of a bicycle,a football helmet or even the bag that keeps your sandwich fresh. One thing for sure, plastics are a part of our world.

Back in the early days of our nation, ordinary household items were made from natural substances. However, as time went on and the world population increased, shortages of many natural fibers and other materials occurred. Clever chemists stepped in and saved the day by creating synthetic substances that, in many cases, proved superior-to-natural materials.

There are dozens of recipes for making plastics. Many of these recipes are guarded secrets protected by the people that produce them. Basically the ingredients in most plastics are hydrocarbon chemicals extracted from such sources as coal, petroleum and even salt and water. The trick is to take the tiny molecules of these substances and remodel them into larger, more complex molecules. Whichever type of plastic is being made, the process is a complex one. Every recipe requires a precise series of intricate steps, and controlled heat and pressure are very important.

One type of plastic is made by bubbling a gas — ethylene — through a liquid, benzene. Both of these chemicals come from petroleum. During this bubbling process a new substance is formed — ethylbenzene. The ethylbenzene is heated to a high temperature and brought in contact with certain other substances to produce another substance called styrene.

Other chemicals are added to the styrene, and the resulting compound is heated and put under great pressure. A chemical reaction causes the styrene molecules to link together and form longer chainlike molecules of polystyrene. The final material can then be ground up and molded into polystyrene plastic articles.

The problem with many man-made substances is that they do not decompose as natural substances do. Wood, wool, iron, paper and other natural substances eventually decompose and are reclaimed by the earth. They are recycled, as new raw materials, and help enrich the earth's soil.

Many ecologists are quite concerned about the numerous plastic products that litter our country. Many of these products keep their composition for literally hundreds of years. Until chemists find successful ways to recycle these plastic and plastic-foam products, it is essential for each of us to make sure that they do not end up as litter and unsightly trash.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Joe Jajko, 10, of Lansing, Mich., for his question:
DO WOODPECKERS EVER GET HEADACHES?

It just stands to reason that a woodpecker would get a headache, with all the force he uses to drill holes in trees. Truth is, though, he has special equipment to bore into trees, and no doubt enjoys every minute of the activity. A woodpecker has a sturdy chisel-like bill, ideal for excavating nest holes and locating tasty wood-boring insects. His bill is supported by a large head with a strong skull capable of absorbing the repeated shocks it gets.

The bills of birds usually are perfectly adapted according to the food-gathering method employed by each species. Our woodpecker is no exception. He also has an extraordinarily long tongue, bordered with sharp barbs at the tip. When coated with mucus from well-developed glands at its base, his tongue becomes a perfect tool for gathering up insects or licking sap from the bark. Some species, such as the great spotted woodpecker, have tongues that can extend many times the length of their bills.

The Money Store 48-Month New Car Loan.
Smaller payments per month with simple interest.

With today's higher car prices, many people have a hard time managing the monthly payments of a 36-month loan.

So, in addition to our 36-month loan, The Money Store offers a 48-month loan with lower monthly payments.

Both are simple interest loans, meaning you pay interest only on the unpaid balance and only as long as it's unpaid. So if you prepay part of your balance, either by making a payment before it's due or by trading in or selling your car, you end up saving money.

Besides lending money for cars, The Money Store makes loans for other purposes in amounts up to $15,000.

Call or stop by The Money Store nearest you and ask your Money Store Manager about our 48-month new car loan.

The difference between getting the car you want and not getting it could be our 48 easy pieces.

Skill never comes to play to watch some rubber-bridge players in action you would think that the Declaration of Indepdence said that all men were created free and equal and entitled to play all notrump contracts.

South was one of those notrumpists. He knew that he played notrump contracts brilliantly. He also knew that the way to get to three notrump was to bid it.

South might well have opened the bidding with one club. If he had done that and rebid hearts after North responded with either one or two diamonds, North would probably have wound up playing a notrump or diamond slam. A heart or spade lead would give him that contract. With a diamond or club lead he would have had to find the right line of play.

However, South passed his 12 high-card points. Then when North opened the bidding he had to make sure to be the notrump bidder and decided to bid game.

North thought about going on, but decided to pass. West opened the queen of spades and all South's genius play could do was to take eight tricks after the defense scored the ifrst five.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ordinance No. 1427

(AN ORDINANCE CONTROLLING EROSION AND SEDIMENTATION)

WHEREAS, the Illinois Municipal Code, Illinois Revised Statutes, Chapter 24, Section 11-19.1-11, for the purpose of lessening or preventing the discharge of air contaminants, expressly grants for the corporate authorities of each municipality the power to prescribe by Ordinance for the regulation of any use of land which causes the emission of air contaminants; and

WHEREAS, said Code, Chapter 24, Section 11-12-4 and 5 also grants for those authorities the power to establish by Ordinance reasonable standards for the use of unimproved land and construction on land; and

WHEREAS, said Code, Chapter 24, Section 11-109-1, also grants for those authorities the power to regulate the use of drains, sewers, and cesspools; and

WHEREAS, said Code, Chapter 24, Section 11-20-4, grants for those authorities the power to provide for the cleansing and purification of waters, water courses, and canals; and

WHEREAS, excessive quantities of soil erosion have been noted in areas that are undergoing development for certain non-agricultural uses, including but not limited to, the construction of dwelling units, commercial buildings, and industrial plants, the building of roads and highways, and the creation of recreational facilities; and

WHEREAS, the washing, blowing, and falling of eroded soil across and upon roadways endangers the health and safety of users thereof by decreasing vision and reducing traction of road vehicles; and

WHEREAS, said soil erosion necessitates the costly repairing of gulleys, washed-out fills, and embankments; and

WHEREAS, the sediment from said soil erosion tends to clog sewers and ditches and to pollute and silt rivers, streams, lakes and reservoirs; and

WHEREAS, said sediment limits the use of water and waterways for most beneficial purposes, destroying fish and other aquatic life, and that said sediment is costly and difficult to remove; and

WHEREAS, said sediment reduces the channel capacity of waterways, resulting in greatly increased chances of flooding at grave danger to public health and safety.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling, County of Cook, State of Illinois, as follows:

Sting continue battle to attract fans

Art Mugalian
Staff Sportswriter

When we were kids growing up in Palatine, we played some incredibly intense baseball games on a little grass field on Lincoln Ave. We continued to play on that field until we were all past 20, eventually switching to softball when the neighbors complained about the cost of replacing broken windows.

It must have been around 1962 when one of the neighbors — certainly not one of the complainers — called the local newspaper and told someone in the sports department that several 14-year-olds were demonstrating amazing feats of baseball skill on Lincoln Ave.

"These kids play like major leaguers," the man reported. "They run, field and hit like real big leaguers."

The newspaperman, like most sportswriters, was probably a master of hyperbole himself, so he wasn't fooled by the caller's flair for overstatement But he didn't hang up right away, either.

"How many people usually attend these games?" he asked.

"Oh, I'm always there to watch them," said the man. "And sometimes my wife, if she's not too busy in the kitchen."

Needless to say, our baseball exploits never saw print.

We all learned a meaningful lesson in sports journalism that day. There's strength in numbers. If the people want it, the papers will cover it. If not, tough.

The Chicago Sting is learning the same lesson. Meanwhile, the two-year-old North American Soccer League team would like to teach the city's media a lesson or two of its own.

Can you imagine what it was like the day someone first called in the results of the Indianapolis 500?

"We had 300,000 people in the stands today," the guy probably told the local paper.

The next year, that newspaper most likely sent a reporter to the old brickyard in Indianapolis, just in case 300,000 fans showed up again.

And a sport was born.

It will take almost the same kind of dramatic event to breathe life into the Sting, a classic example of a team that is forced to create its own headlines. Charged with that job is Sting public relations director Brad Sham, a 27-year-old former newspaperman who has a five-year background in soccer.

"In terms of the three Chicago papers there's absolutely no question that it's a vicious circle," Sham said Tuesday. "The editors say they can't cover us if there are no people in the stands, and we won't get people in the stands unless there's coverage in the papers. I can see that both sides are completely correct.

"If we could get a day-of-game advance and a day-after-game summary and maybe a little good play early in the week for a Friday or Saturday night game, then more people would know about us and more people would buy tickets," said Sham.

"But I know a lot of editors hesitate to give coverage commensurate to basketball or baseball to a sport that averages just 4,000 a game."

Only slightly more than 1,500 fans attended the Sting's 5-1 win over Philadelphia t Comiskey Park Sunday when 18-year-old Morton East High School star Miro Rys scored two goals and an assist. But the game was well-reported in the daily press and Sham was encouraged.

"Miro was a godsend for us, although not in terms of attendance yet," said Sham, who is convinced that soccer can bury the stigma of its foreign roots.

"There has been a trend to Americanize soccer in the past few years," he continued. "Wd have to give the fans good soccer, but we can't have a game dominated by foreign players. Each year for the past three years the league has increased the number of American players a team has to have on its roster. This year it's six."

Still, the biggest soccer attraction in the world is Brazilian superstar Pele, who comes to town with his New York Cosmos teammates June 23 at Soldier Field. Sham is holding his breath.

"I'll be most interested in seeing what kind of pre-Pele coverage there is in the sports pages," Sham said. "It won't be make-or-break for the franchise, but say we draw 30,000 that night. We might end up averaging 8,000 or 9,000 a game for the rest of the season."

Sham said he expected at least 20,000 for the appearance of Pele, who has not played soccer in Chicago since he signed a multi-million dollar vontract with the Cosmos two years ago.

"Pele has already earned his money," said Sham. "He drew 35,000 in Washington, 25,000 in Dallas, 58,000 in Seattle, 42,000 in Los Angeles, 46,000 in Miami, 32,000 in Portland.

"Very honestly, there isn't a chance that soccer won't catch on here," the Sting's P.R. man said. "The only question is how long it takes."

Sham doesn't expect he'll ever have to call the local papers to tell them there are 50,000 people in the stands at Soldier Field. He figures if he does his job, the reporters will already be there to see it.

"The problem is you can take a horse to water but you can't make him write," Sham said.

A's owner sells superstar trio for $3 million

OAKLAND (UPI) — Flamboyant Charles O. Finley, in the most spectacular series of deals of major league baseball history, Tuesday night stripped his three-time world champion Oakland A's of superstars Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue in two separate straight-cash deals involving a total of $3-million.

In the first startling announcement of the evening, Finley sent Rudi and Fingers to the Boston Red Sox for $1-million each. He then announced that Blue, a three-time 20-game winner and the Cy Young Award winner in

Charlie Finley

1971, had been sold to the New York Yankees, also for $1-million.

The deals virtually completed the dismantling of Finley's championship teams of 1972-73-74 as he previously had sent Reggie Jackson and Ken Holtzman to the Baltimore Orioles in a blockbuster trade prior to the start of the season.

All five Oakland superstars had not signed contracts for 1976 and were scheduled to become free agents at the conclusion of this season. It was for this reason that Finley chose to unload them.

"I just refuse to let these athletes drive me into bankruptcy with their astronomical, unjustified salary demands," said Finley in his Chicago office. "I'm disappointed over the necessity of having to make these sales today."

It was the most spectacular dismantlement of a championship club since Connie Mack broke up his 1929-31 Philadelphia A's teams. Despite winning, Mack gave up superstars Jimmie Foxx, Lefty Grove, Al Simmons, George Walberg and Max Bishop in separate deals because the club still wasn't drawing at the gate.

Rudi, called by his Oakland teammates "the man without a weakness," started the 1976 season with a .276 lifetime average. Playing both first base and the outfield, Rudi was regarded as one of the most valuable players in the league every season from 1970-75. He also starred in all three Oakland World Series championships from 1972-74, compiling a .300 average in the fall classics, and in 1974 against the Dodgers he made one of the greatest catches in Series history.

Fingers, like Rudi, was at his best in pressure situations. He compiled a 1.35 earned run average in 16 World series appearances and was generally recognized as the American League's No. 1 relief pitcher. In the 1974 Series, he was voted the most valuable player, appearing in four of the five games against the Dodgers with a 1.93 ERA.

Blue, the fitful star who rose to nationwide fame in 1971 when he became the first rookie pitcher in history to win the Cy Young Award, had a 24-8 mark that year with a 1.82 earned run average and struck out 301 batters. He had a memorable contract fight with Finley during that winter and was only 6-10 the next season. However, he won a total of 59 games in the next three seasons.

Finley, characterized by his hard boiled attitude toward player salary demands, said: "There was a lot of sweat, a lot of blood and a lot of sacrifice put into this ballclub. Yet, five ballplayers of mine had an agent by the name of Jerry Kapstein who kept me in the dark continuously."

Kapstein is the business advisor for Rudi, Fingers, Bert Campaneris, Gene Tenace and Don Baylor, who came over in the Jackson trade with Baltimore.

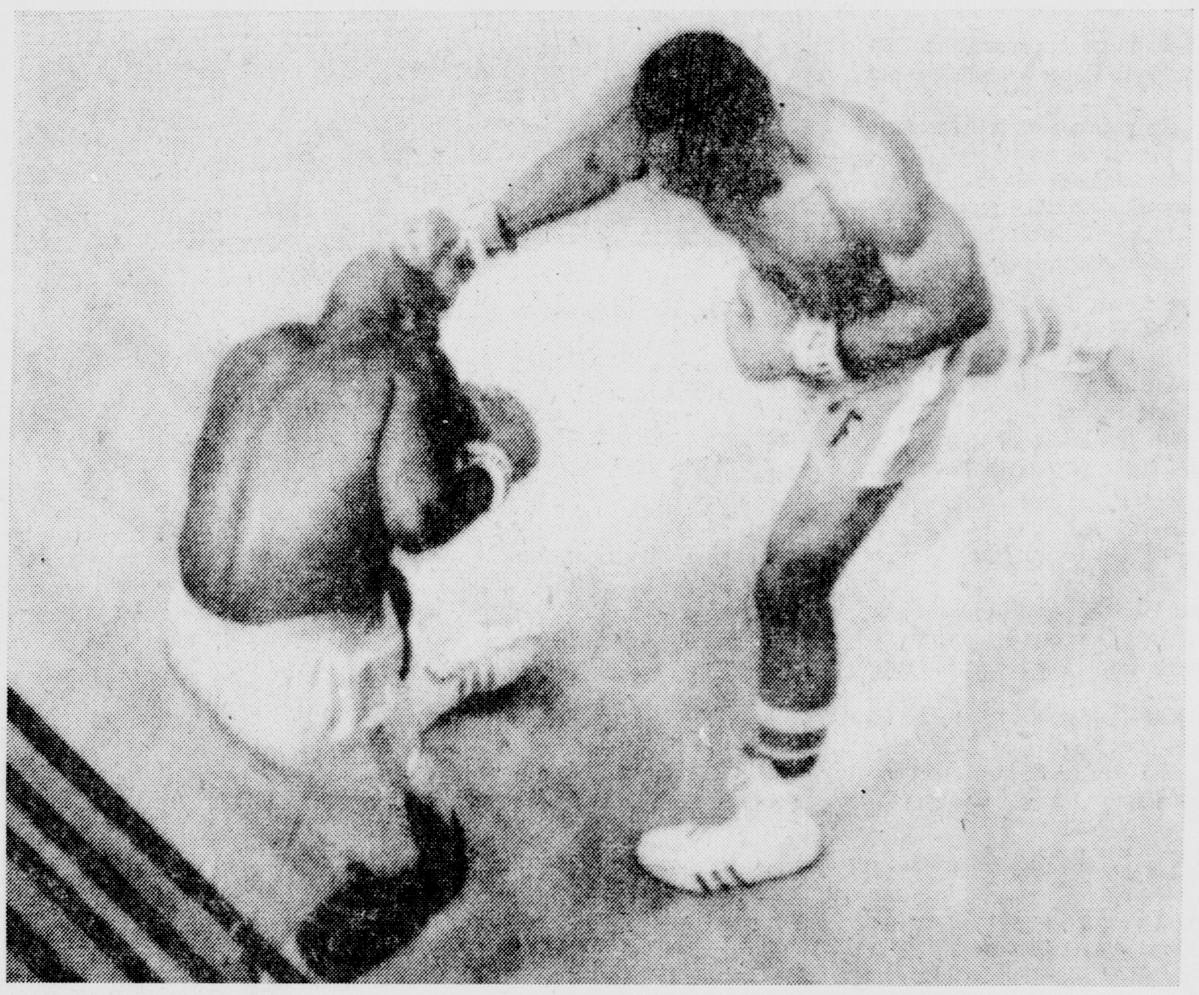

Finley complained repeatedly that Kapstein had conducted all negotiations over the long-distance phone instead of coming to see him. Kapstein, who makes his office in Springfield, Va., said repeatedly that he was willing to meet Finley, but no meeting date was ever set by the Oakland owner.

With five of his top stars gone now, Finley obviously faces a much tougher job ahead. That didn't seem to worry him, however. "We will rebuild," he said, "and fast!"

Meanwhile, in Boston, Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson, apparently unaware of the Yankees acquisition of Blue, smiled and said, "we'll run New York down pretty soon and have some fun this summer."

"We are talking about one of the premier, if not the premier pitcher in the American League, in the last few years," he said in reference to Fingers. Adding in regard to Rudi, he said: "We're talking about one of the best players in the American League.

"Certainly the Bost Red Sox are dang happy to have both of them on the club."

POUNDING THE SHAVEN head of Joe Frazier is George Foreman during the 12-round heavyweight fight Tuesday in Uniondale, N.Y. Foreman scored a technical knockout in the fifth round to move into prime contention for the title.

Foreman registers TKO over Frazier in 5th round

UNIONDALE, N. Y. (UPI) — George Foreman unleashed a furious fusillade of punches to knock Joe Frazier down twice and score a technical knockout at 2:26 of the fifth round Tuesday night in their scheduled 12-rounder.

Frazier, who entered the ring with his head shaven as a psychological ploy, had held his own until the fifth round, bobbing and weaving and using the ropes in an attempt to make Foreman tire himself weary.

Suddenly, in the fifth round, Foreman landed a right uppercut, then proceeded to hammer away at a defenseless Frazier for at least a half minute before scoring a knockdown with a short right hand.

Frazier was up almost immediately, but appeared dazed. Foreman, sensing the kill, charged across the ring from a neutral corner and once more began to hammer away. Frazier went down seconds later for a eight count and his handler, Eddie Futch, rushed across the outside of the ring apron to tell referee Harold Valan to stop the fight.

The loss for Frazier almost certainly marks the end of one of contemporary boxing's most fabled careers. The last sentence of the last chapter of Frazier's ring career will not do justice to his performance as he sought revenge against the man who gave him a savage beating in taking his heaveyweight championship 3-½ years ago at Kingston, Jamaica.

The fashion in which the 27-year-old Foreman raised his record to 42-and-1, with 39 knockouts, should silence the majority of his critics and should prove conclusively he's ready for a shot at regaining the heavyweight title lost to Muhammad Ali in Zaire.

Foreman displayed find defensive ability, catching many of Frazier's blows on his arms, and showed he can take a good punch.

This was the first time Foreman had won impressively since losing the title in 1973 and his performance undoubtedly earned him serious consideration for a rematch with Ali, provided the champion defeats Ken Norton in his next title defense.

Frazier, who moved backwards for the first time in his career in carrying out his battle plan almost to perfection during the first four rounds, countered with left hooks over Foreman's right uppercuts before reverting to his natural instincts in fifth and paying the price.

Foreman, criticized for tiring himself out with his free-swinging against Ali and Ron Lyle, maintained his composure and picked his spots. He talked to Frazier, showing no signs of the shattered ego believed to be the result of his loss to Ali. Frazier weighed the heaviest of his career at 224-½ pounds, the same weight as Foreman. His record fell to 34-4.

Frazier never had Foreman in trouble, although he won the second round when he landed a half dozen left hooks.

And Valan never warned Foreman for pushing, something Futch had complained happened in Frazier's first fight with Foreman. Foreman was warned for cuffing in the third round.

With a crowd estimated at more than 10,000 chanting "Let's go Joe," Foreman took command in the third round when he landed a left-right combination as Frazier tried to make him arm-weary by lying on the ropes as Ali had done so successfully in Zaire.

Foreman opened a cut under Frazier's right nostril in the fourth round, then began to measure his punches and they began to land with greater frequency.

Each fighter was guaranteed $1 million plus 35 per cent of agreed upon rights, making the fight the richest non-title bout in history. The fight was shown on closed circuit television.

Orioles top Sox

by BOB GALLAS

With owner Bill Veeck wheeling and dealing as the trading deadline approached, the White Sox dealt away a 4-0 decision to Baltimore Tuesday night to snap a nine-game Oriole loss skein while extending the Chicago losing streak to five games.

Jim Palmer, who had won only one game in the last month, was the winner in a duel with Sox right-hander Rich Gossage, who went the distance in a losing cause.

Veeck, who spent much of the day in trade talks with Baltimore and other clubs, was apparently unsuccessful as of late Tuesday in bringing some help to the Southsiders, who are slipping of late. Veeck didn't rule out any last minute deals before the deadline, which was 2 a.m. today.

The Orioles got all the runs they needed in the fourth when they scored three, the big blow coming off the bat of Lee May, who blasted a two-run homer off the right field upper deck. Baltimore added a run in the sixth when Mark Belanger got his second RBI of the night when he doubled in Reggie Jackson with the fourth Oriole run.

Both benches emptied in the sixth when Doug DeCinces threw his bat at Gossage on a swing. The incident left Gossage hopping mad.

"I've never thrown at anyone in my life," said Gossage. "A pitcher has to throw guys inside. I got under the ball and it kind of took off."

Gossage stormed back to the mound when order was restored and started firing pitches as fast and as hard as he could. He got DeCinces looking at strike three to end the inning.

Sox Manager Paul Richards thought DeCinces should have been thrown out of the ballgame for the bat-throwing. "He's (Gossage) never thrown at anyone. The way he throws sidearm the ball gets away from him a lot," Richards said.

And if we're going to throw at anybody we're not going to throw at .150 hitters like DeCinces," said Richards who shaved a few points off DeCinces' .230 batting average.

Palmer settled down after giving up a hit in the fourth and retired 12 Sox in a row before Chet Lemon singled with two out in the eighth. Palmer gave up only five scattered hits, striking out three while walking only one to record his seventh victory against seven defeats.

Gossage was in and out of trouble, giving up eight hits and five walks in nine innings, while striking out only three.

The Sox threatened in the third when they got men on second and third with nobody out, but Palmer got out of the jam.

Cincinnati overpowers Cubs, 6-4

CINCINNATI — Bob Bailey's one-out pinch single scored Ed Armbrister in the eighth inning Tuesday night to break a 3-3 tie and the Cincinnati Reds went on to add two more runs and defeat the Chicago Cubs 6-4.

johnny Bench touched off the winning rally by drawing a walk off loser Darold Knowles. After Armbrister ran for the Red catcher, Cesar Geronomo singled to center. Both runners advanced on Dave Concepcion's sacrifice and Bailey followed with his tie-breaking single.

Pete Rose singled home Geronimo with the second run of the inning before Knowles was replaced by Bruce Sutter. One out later, Joe Morgan drove in Ken Griffey, a pinch runner for Bailey, with a single to center.

Steve Renko started for the Cubs and was tagged for three runs, two of them earned, in the first inning when the Reds bunched an error by Manny Trillo with two walks and singles by George Foster and Bench.

The Cubs took on early 1-0 lead on the second wild pitch of the first winning by Gullet. Jose Cardenal, who had reached, on a single, scampered home from third base. Cardenal had reached on a single and moved to third on an infield single by Bill Madlock and a throwing error by Rose.

Trillo made up for his mistake in the fourth with a solo homer, his first of the season, to make it 3-2 in the hosts' favor.

A grounder by Joe Wallis was errored by shortstop Dave Concepcion, allowing the Cubs to tie the game in the fifth, 3-3.

The Reds threatened in the sixth inning, loading the bases. Darold Knowles came on in relief and didn't have to throw a pitch to clutch hitter Morgan. He instead picked off Lum at first to get out of the jam.

Vehe earns ticket to Olympic Games

Bob Vehe, Mount Prospect, Ill., pedaled his bicycle 1,000 meters in 1:09.15 Tuesday night to win the 1,000-meter event of time trials for the U.S. Olympic bicycle team at Northbrook.

Vehe, who will represent the United States in the kilometer event at the summer Olympics in Montreal, was the first person to qualify for the U.S. bicycling team.

Thirty-three bicyclists from across the country are competing in the time trials, which will be completed Thursday night. Time trials for the sprints will be held Wednesday night and the 4,000-meter team competition will be held Thursday night.

Astrodome game 'rained in'

Rain forced the first cancellation of a sporting event in the Astrodome's 11-year history Tuesday, and members of the opposing baseball teams celebrated with a sit-down dinner on the infield in Houston.

"The (Pittsburgh) Pirates, and the (Houston) Astros have put up banquet tables on the infield and are sitting down for supper," a dome spokesman said. "It's not exactly a rain out; it's a rain in. We're bone dry inside."

The game was cancelled after more than 7½ inches of rain flooded Houston streets and freeways, preventing fans from driving to the huge covered stadium.

"Probably less than 10 or 20 people got here, just a handful of real diehards," the spokesman said.

Colorful Jimmy Dykes dies

Jimmie Dykes, whose colorful baseball career spanned almost 50 years, died early Tuesday in Philadelphia's Hahnemann Hospital at the age of 79.

At different times in his career, the cigar-smoking Dykes managed the Chicago White Sox, the Detroit Tigers, the Cincinnati Reds, Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians. He was also involved in one of baseball's most bizarre trades when general manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians swapped his manager Joe Gordon for Dykes, the Detroit Tiger manager, May 3,1959.

In his 21-year major league career, Dykes batted .280 with 2,256 hits and drove in 1,075 runs. In three World Series with Connie Mack's A's, Dykes batted .288 with 11 RBI and also got two hits during the famous 10-run seventh inning the A's staged in the fourth game of the 1929 series versus the Chicago Cubs.

Dykes was a player-manager with the White Sox from 1934 through 1939, the year he ended his active playing career with a .280 lifetime average.

Royals destroy Tigers, 20-7

Amos Otis knocked in five runs and Dave Nelson drove home four Tuesday night as the Kansas City Royals went on a season-high 24-hit splurge to pound the hosting Detroit Tigers 20-7 and extend their winning streak to seven straight.

After falling behind 2-0 in the first inning, the Royals began tearing into four Tiger pitchers and piled up 15 runs in the next three innings, scoring five in the second, four in the third and three in the sixth before cooling off somewhat.

Ashe has easy Wimbledon path

Top seed and defending champion Arthur Ashe will have a much easier path to the Wimbledon final than Jimmy Connors, according to the draw made Tuesday by officials of the All-England Lawn Tennis Club.

Ashe has a first round match against Ferdy Taygan, the 57th ranked U.S. player from Framingham, Mass., and could come up against Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia in the first clash of seeds in the third round. If the seedings go to plan, Ashe would then play Raul Ramirez of Mexico in the quarter-finals and Ilie Nastase in the semis.

Connors, seeded second to win back the men's singles crown Ashe took from him in last year's final, should have no problem against Antonio Zugarelli of Italy, primarily a clay court player, in the first round. But then Connors could meet Stan Smith, the 1972 champion, and also in his half are Roscoe Tanner, the No. 5 seed who beat him four days ago, and Bjorn Borg, who could be his semi-final opponent.

Braves receive warm ($) welcome

Enthusiasm began to build and ticket sales appeared to be surging Tuesday with the news that the Buffalo Braves will probably move to the Sportatorium in Hollywood, Fla., next season. The team has 6,000 telephone pledges for season tickets, but the first person to actually plunk down cash was Phil Youtie, a Fort Lauderdale dress shop owner, who handed over $4,788 for tickets for himself and 11 friends.

Tanner shot down in Nottingham

Mike Estep of Dallas ended Adriano Panatta's 18 match winning run Tuesday at the $100,000 John Player grass court tennis tournament, which also saw Roscoe Tanner, another recent winner, crash in the second round.

While Panatta, winner of the recent Italian and French Open clay court titles, and Tanner, last week's counqueror of Jimmy Connors at Beckenham and the tourney defending champ, were knocked out of the tournament, Connors continued his impressive Wimbledon buildup with the 6-4, 6-2 defeat of Australi's power serving Colin Dibley.

Evert plays tough despite illiness

Chris Evert said Tuesday she had a "very worrying" case of laryngitis just six days before the start of Wimbledon but was her usual devastating self on court as she defeated two opponents to reac the fourth round of the $100,000 Colgate grass court tennis tournament in Eastbourne, England.

Chris, playing on grass for the first time since losing her Wimbledon crown to Billie Jean King one year ago, swept aside Annette DuPlooy of South Africa, 6-1, 6-1, with a minimum of effort after earlier defeating Christina Sandberg of Sweden, 6-3, 6-2, in a second round match.

What to look for when you're looking for an air conditioner.

Before you choose an air conditioner, ask the dealer for its energy efficiency ratio. This number tells you the efficiency of a unit. An air conditioner with an EER number of 8 or above will be thrifty for you electrically.

The EER number is computed by dividing the BTUs by the watts. A 12,000-BTU unit that uses 1500 watts will rate an 8. If the EER doesn't appear on the tag or metal nameplate, use this simple formula yourself. It's a worthwhile exercise that can pay off in electric dollar savings over the long run.

Don't buy too much capacity. Surprisingly, an air conditioner that's too big usually won't keep you as comfortable as a smaller unit.

So measure the space to be cooled before you go to the dealer. Also note any doors that might let cool air escape, or windows that might let direct sunlight in. The dealer will have charts to translate your notes into the right air conditioner selection.

Some tips on cutting cooling costs. Keep the warm air out and the cool air in with proper insulation and weather stripping where you need it. Block out the sun by drawing drapes. And locate the air conditioner on the shady side of your house, making sure to seal any leaks in the window after you put it in

And remember to keep the filter clean. Check your owner's manual to see if you should vacuum it or wash it. In either case, a good periodic cleaning will make your air conditioner more efficient, and save you money.

Another good way to save on your cooling costs is to get an automatic timer made especially for air conditioners. If you're going to be away from home for the day, you can set the timer to turn on the air conditioner an hour or so before you return in the evening. Your home will be more comfortable; your air conditioner will get most of the day off; and you'll save money on your electric bill.

It makes a lot of sense to buy an air conditioner that starts efficient and stays efficient. Saving energy always makes sense. And when summer's over, you'll find the extra care was worth it— in dollars and cents.

Scoreboard

Marathon in Mount Prospect

When the Braves and the Mets met for the first half championship of the Mount Prospect Pony B League none of them expected the outcome to take a week.

But that's what happened as the two teams waited it out through 20 innings on two consecutive Sunday afternoons before the Braves took a 2-0 win.

Jamie Maas, Tim Winfield, Scott Lapcewich and Wally Szymonoski handled the mound chores for the Braves with Lapcewich getting credit for the win.

Maas opened the Braves' 20th inning with a base hit and went to second when Buddy Kirkwood walked.

Both runners advanced when Met pitcher Tom Maloney threw a wild pitch.

Moments later Angelo Tiesi slapped a ground ball and Maas was nailed at the plate while Kirkwood went to third and Tiesi made it all the way to second.

Maloney's balk pushed Kirkwood home for the first run of the game and Tiesi, who had moved to third on the balk, scored on a sacrifice fly by Mike Wille.

The valiant Met pitching effort rested with Joe Johnson, Mike Hafertepe, Kevin and Tom Maloney.

The game was the longest in Mount Prospect since 1971, when a Pony A game went 19-1/3 innings.

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKY • 86 AND 80 PROOF • EARLY TIMES DISTILLERY CO., LOUISVILLE, KY. © ETDC 1976

These are the Times that prove our worth.

To celebrate the Bicentennial, we produced a limited number of ceramic decanters. We limited the number because we wanted the bottles to one day be collectors' items (and they will be). And quite honestly, we limited the number because we weren't sure if we would sell all we produced. There's so much talk about patriotism these days, mostly about the lack of it.
Hogwash.
If the sale of our Bicentennial bottles tells us anything, it's that Americans are still proud of their heritage. No sooner were the decanters put on sale than they were snapped up. And although we'd like to attribute our fine Kentucky bourbon as the reason, we really feel it was merely Americans wanting a piece of the Bicentennial as their very own.
1776 was when the great dream became a reality.
We honestly feel that our 200th birthday proves the dream came true.

Early Times. To know us is to love us.
